German Dead in One Week In Caucasus Nearly 8,000

Tremendous "Dogfights" Swirl In Air Over the Battlefields

LONDON, May 3 (CP).—Russian troops have killed 900 more Germans in violent fighting in the Kuban sector of the Caucasus, the Soviets announced tonight, bringing the toll of enemy dead within the last week in that area to nearly 8,000.

Actions flared all along the vast front from the Caucasus north to Leningrad, with a total of 1,280 Nazi troops killed today in land attacks and by artillery actions, said the midnight communique as recorded by the Soviet radio monitor.

Tremendous dogfights swirled in the air over the Caucasian battlefields, the Moscow radio reported, with fifty-four German planes shot down in combats "west of Krasnodar," Sunday, and today against a loss of twenty-one Russian planes.

These aerial battles apparently accompanied the German assaults to broaden their bridgehead around Novorossisk, attacks which the Russians reported today had been beaten back after six days of fighting in which 7,000 German troops perished.

Red Army units conducting "active military operations" Monday in this same area killed 900 more Germans, burned or disabled four Nazi tanks, destroyed nine blockhouses and seven dugouts, and silenced two artillery and five mortar batteries, said the midnight war bulletin.

In the Sevsk sector, northwest of Kursk, Russian scouts, in a surprise raid, swarmed into German trenches, killing the defenders and capturing arms before returning to their positions. Snipers in this sector killed eighty Germans during the day.

WIPE OUT NAZI COMPANY

On the western front before Smolensk Russian artillery fire wiped out more than a company of German soldiers, destroyed eight machine-guns and silenced four artillery batteries, the communique reported.

On the Leningrad front snipers "exterminated over 100 Hitlerites," while artillery and mortar fire "destroyed eight blockhouses and seven dugouts, silenced two artillery batteries, and blew up an ammunition dump."

Guerrillas in the Chernigov area repulsed an attack launched by a

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1943, by Southam Co.)

LONDON, May 3.—The Allied air offensive, despite misty weather, has done much damage to Axis supply vessels off Tunisia and sunk two destroyers.

The light British naval forces and submarines have also taken a heavy toll.

On land, bad weather has checked major operations, though attack and counter-attack have been maintained locally. While weather lasts, says The Times Algiers correspondent, the British must confine themselves to whittling away the enemy's fighting strength and material reserves and to reducing his morale, knowing he can not in his turn adopt such tactics. The impression grows that the Germans have begun to realize the weight of British attacks and the chance offered them by the need of regrouping the Allied force. They are desperately trying to recover the initiative with courage of which only most seasoned troops are capable.

Editorially, The Times deals with Canada's growing seapower as shown by the Dominion's increased responsibilities for the protection of the Atlantic convoys; new organization for operations against U-boats, says the newspaper is the logical development of arrangements based on sound strategic principles and long experience of conduct of war at sea.

"In the past," says the paper, "it has been lack of escorts and not any shortcomings in organization that has prevented efficiency in operations."

Conduct and defence of the North American convoys is now Canadian and United Kingdom responsibility from end to end. Admiral Murray is the first flag officer of the Royal Canadian Navy to assume the command-in-chief of a vital war area, and the occasion marks the strategic coming of age of the service to which he belongs. His appointment is an eloquent testimony of the

Planes Are Destroyed On Ground

Three Allied Pilots Missing

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 4 (Tuesday) (CP).—Two Japanese bombers and two fighters have been destroyed on the ground at Kupang, Timor, the Allied High Command said today. Kupang is 500 miles northwest of Darwin, Australia.

"Our long-range fighters raided the airdrome, destroying two enemy bombers and two fighters caught on the ground," the noon communique said.

The airdrome personnel and barracks buildings were also strafed in numerous passes over the target.

Three Allied pilots are missing as result of the Japanese attack on Darwin Sunday.

The Allied losses were due principally to extreme weather conditions rather than to Japanese activity, a spokesman said.

A strong wind caught the Spitfires as they pursued the Japanese raiders northwestward over the Arafura Sea and cut down their speed on the return flight so greatly some were forced down at sea. Others crash-landed on the shore.

In actual combat although outnumbered, the Spitfires, manned by Australian and British pilots, not only successfully diverted the enemy's main bombing attack but inflicted far heavier damage on the fighters than they received themselves.

It also was considered likely that adverse weather conditions increased Japanese losses beyond those claimed.

The attack on Kupang, made by Australian - manned Beaufighters, involved a 1,000-mile flight. The action took place Sunday afternoon but the report was delayed.

WEATHER HINDERS AIR OPERATIONS

Inclement weather, which has hampered all air activity north of Australia for the last two weeks, prevented air operations yesterday, except for an attack by an American heavy bomber on the Lolobau Island area in the Bismarck Sea north of New Britain, and a low-level raid by a formation of bombers upon Gasmata, New Britain.

The heavy bomber strafed two small Japanese vessels near Lolobau Islands from an altitude of 2,000 feet. One of the ships was sunk.

Medium bombers also flew in a low-level attack on the Gasmata, New Britain, airdrome and shot up boats and barges along the shore. In a follow-up to the Sunday day attack on Koepang, a formation of Netherlands-manned medium bombers Sunday evening attacked the airdrome again, starting fires.

Escape From Train Wreck Miraculous

Indications of Sabotage Alleged

WINNIPEG, May 3 (CP).—Soldiers aboard the special Canadian Pacific Railway Soo Line train derailed near Arnaud, Man., during the week-end today told stories of miraculous escapes when the engine and five coaches of the fourteen-coach special overturned.

The Winnipeg Tribune said: "Indications of sabotage appeared in the official investigation. . . . The train ran into an open switch leading to a siding. Repos indicated the switch had been tampered with."

The soldier-passengers said rails were twisted and knotted, and many "looked like pretzels."

A rail flew through a window, narrowly missing a soldier's head. It split his rifle in two.

Another soldier, who had been sleeping in an upper berth, said he woke up to find wheels spinning near his face. The undercarriage of a coach had smashed against the car he was sleeping in.

Three trainmen were injured, but the troops escaped serious injury.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police, military authorities, and railway officials investigated today, but no statements were issued officially placing responsibility for the derailment.

Bomb Explodes In Nazi Bureau

BERNE, May 3 (CP).—A frontier dispatch to The Geneva Tribune said today that two bombs exploded in the Nazi Employment Bureau and headquarters of Marshal Petain's Legion Combattants at Annemasse in the Haute Savoie region of France during the past week-end.

No casualties were reported, but the dispatch said the blasts caused considerable damage.

The Swiss-French frontier remained closed by Italian authorities, but there were reports that it would be reopened May 5, when Swiss citizens, who were caught by the closing on March 25, would be permitted to return to their homes.

Expect U.S. Coal Mines in Full Operation Again Today

WASHINGTON, May 3 (CP).—Thousands of miners returned to the coal pits today under the fifteen-day truce in the coal crisis, with every indication pointing to full operation of the mines tomorrow.

They trooped to work in mines over which flew the American flag, symbolizing the fact that the United States Government is in the coal business as operator of every shaft affected by the strike. They went back on orders from John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers and in accordance with the request of President Roosevelt.

In the next fifteen days a fresh start will be made on the wage dispute that led to the strike. This time the man who has primary responsibility for setting it is Harold L. Ickes, the Solid Fuels Co-ordinator, and President Roosevelt has made it clear that any settlement must be approved by the War Labor Board.

There was speculation that grounds for a permanent settlement might be found in discussions of a universal six-day week for the industry.

As the day advanced in mines taken over by the Government Saturday, it was not clear whether the full vanguard of returning workers was responding specifically to the call of the President or the call of Lewis.

The back-to-work movement was led by 350 miners at Gallitzin, Pa., who voted to go back to work even before the truce was announced. In some mines in Pennsylvania, the number reporting for early shifts was not sufficient to start work, but labor leaders predicted both anthracite and soft coal mines would be going at full clip tomorrow.

FULL WORKING FORCE IN OHIO

In Ohio, nearly a full working force reported at eight major mines; in the southern fields of West Virginia, 29 per cent of the mining personnel was back on the job; and

New Record in Shipbuilding

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP). — United States merchant shipyards established another new record for ship production in April by delivering 157 ships, totaling 1,606,600 deadweight tons.

This, announced today by the Maritime Commission, brought 1943 production to 636 ships aggregating 5,370,000 deadweight tons, the four-month total exceeding the total tonnage constructed during the first nine months of 1942.

April construction was at an annual rate exceeding 19,000,000 tons, the approximate goal for the year.

California Shipbuilding Corporation of Wilmington, Calif., broke all previous records for a single yard by delivering nineteen Liberty ships.

The Oregon Shipbuilding Corporation of Portland, Ore., took second place with seventeen Liberty ships.

TANK WORKERS QUIT

BRANTFORD, Ont., May 3 (CP).—Ninety-one employees, the entire personnel of the Tank Parts Department of the Massey Harris Co. here, walked out today in protest against cuts in their piece work wage rate. The strike started Saturday as a "sit down" and became a walkout today.

Actions Flare on Long Front

THE above map shows the area where the Russians have opened their new offensive. It will be seen that the comparatively small area which the enemy still holds on the Caucasian side of the Strait of Kerch has considerable nuisance value. If the Russians can clear this territory before the Germans launch their Summer campaign in the Ukraine and the Donets Basin, the Red Army will be in a stronger position to meet the attack.

Dutch Coastal City and Northern France Given Pounding by Bombers

Second Raid in Two Days on Ijmuiden by R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Planes

LONDON, May 3 (AP).—The R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. made two extensive sweeps over Northern France and Holland today at a cost of eleven bombers and two fighters missing, the heaviest loss in recent daylight raids.

Among the targets attacked was the power station at Ijmuiden, Holland, on which bombs were seen to burst, an Air Ministry communique said tonight.

The attack force encountered enemy fighters in considerable numbers. Five were shot down, two by Squadron Leader F. H. Boulton, of Coleman, Alta., and Pit.-Lt. R. A. Buckham, of Vancouver, members of the R.C.A.F. City of Oshawa Squadron.

It was the second raid in two days on Ijmuiden, a Netherlands coastal city.

Today's heavy loss of aircraft, coupled with other recent announced losses, indicated a tightening of Nazi defences against both night and day air raids.

R.A.F. fighters and bombers shot their way through strong fighter opposition in raiding Ijmuiden yesterday, knocking down six enemy craft, but lost four of their own fighters. Seven American bombers were lost Saturday night in an at-

B.C.-Yukon's Total Climbs

Vancouver City in Lead in Bond Sales

VANCOUVER, May 3 (CP). — Including applications received from the general public and substantial orders from business firms, the British Columbia-Yukon's Fourth Victory Loan campaign tonight reported $49,265,250 in bonds sold. The area's quota is $110,000,000.

Total number of applications received from the public are still considerably ahead of those taken in the third loan for the same period of time—51,706, as against 41,874. Applications recorded from the public total $14,654,150, while in the third loan at this time $11,780,150 had been received.

Vancouver city still held her lead over all divisions with 39 per cent.

Others in order are: Okanagan-Kamloops-Revelstoke, 35; Yukon-Atlin-Peace River, 35; New Westminster-Fraser Valley, 31; Coast, 30; Vancouver Island, 28; Vancouver suburban, 25; Northern British Columbia, 23; Kootenays, 22.

Dawson-Mayo leads all units with 150 per cent taken in. West Vancouver jumped into second place over the week-end, reporting 55 per cent. Powell River and district is third with 53 per cent.

Units running over 40 per cent are South Coast, 45; Whitehorse, 45; Revelstoke-Golden-Field, 43, and Central Okanagan 43.

To Take Strike Vote

EDMONTON, May 3 (CP). — More than 250 Edmonton civic employees —members of Local No. 30—will take a strike vote May 12 unless civic officials meet their demands for a "full cost-of-living bonus and yearly holidays with pay," it was revealed tonight at a meeting of the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council.

The council gave its support to the local for the proposed strike vote.

Malcolm Amalie, vice-chairman of the council and a civic employee, said he believed a compromise "could have been made but the city failed and we have given them until May 12."

Majority of members of Local No. 30 of the Civic Employees Union are in the city water works and engineering departments.

President Appeals to Patriotism

War Effort Not To Be Obstructed

WASHINGTON, May 3 (CP). — President Roosevelt appealed last night to "the essential patriotism" of the striking coal miners of the United States to return to the pits without further delay.

In a broadcast speech, while plans were going into operation to reopen, tomorrow morning the 3,850 closed mines under the management of the Government itself, the President declared that each idle miner "directly and individually obstructs" the war effort of the United States.

The President's speech was blunt and frank. He said the forward movement of the United States, and indirectly of the United Nations, "must not be hampered by any one individual or by the leaders of any one group here back home."

He declared that production of coal "will not be stopped" and told the 500,000 striking miners they were gambling with the future of their country.

"We have not won this war," the President declared.

"We will win this war as we produce and deliver our total armed effort on the high seas and on the battlefronts.

"That requires unrelenting, uninterrupted effort here on the home front."

GAMBLING WITH FIGHTERS' LIVES

A stoppage of coal production, he continued, "even for a short time would involve a gamble with the lives of American soldiers and sailors and the future security of our whole people.

"It would involve an unwarranted, unnecessary and terrible dangerous gamble with our chances for victory."

In plain words, Mr. Roosevelt laid the blame for the coal crisis squarely on John L. Lewis and the other national officers of the U.M.W. and said he had received messages from American soldiers and sailors overseas telling what they thought of

All Canada Is Fighting

THIS is a good land. Back of the surface differences, large or small, the people who are Canada are lending their strength, their brains, their energy and their resources to back up those who stand for freedom where the fighting is. Since the conflict started some Canadians have never been out of the range of fire. The day is fast coming when our men will be in the thick of it again, at Germany's throat. We have said it must be "unconditional surrender" for our foes; that nothing less will suffice. If we meant that—and we did—no stone must be left unturned to back the attack, to hasten victory. Investment in Victory Bonds is a step within the reach of almost all. It is not a little one. On the contrary, it is crucial now. We must keep our firm pledge with those who are offering their youth, their health, their lives and their all, so that Canada may remain a good land and free. Tomorrow, the red tide of war may swell to its greatest climax. Today, we must act. It is our move now on the home front. Let us make it a memorable one.

Americans Continue Drive Beyond Mateur After Taking Important Axis Stronghold

Great Land Victory Leaves Tunis and Bizerte in Peril

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA, May 3 (AP).—American soldiers smashing back German troops in a fourteen-mile plunge, today occupied Mateur, one of the most important Axis strongholds in Northern Tunisia, and thus scored their greatest land victory in Africa.

French troops and other American forces to the North, meanwhile, stabbed to within fifteen miles of Bizerte.

The capture of Mateur, strategic enemy communications and supply centre, brought the United States troops to the edge of the fan-like Tunis plain in which Allied armored formations can operate.

At last reports, the bulk of enemy forces in the North still were retreating, but it was not known how far beyond Mateur they had gone, nor exactly where they might attempt a new stand.

Seizure of the town definitely threatens both Bizerte and Tunis. In the extreme north, before Bizerte, the Axis still holds hills for defence, and the naval base is further protected by the twin lakes of Bizerte and Garaet Achkel.

CONTINUE ADVANCE BEYOND MATEUR

The Algiers radio said the United States troops were continuing to advance beyond Mateur, with Allied fighter and bomber planes pounding at the retreating Axis forces.

The crash through the craggy hills to Mateur in two weeks of bitter fighting, marked by heavy losses on both sides, was mainly a feat of infantry supported by long-range American 155-millimetre artillery that had shelled the town for five days.

American infantry units seized Green and Bald Hills in the heavily-fortified Jefna positions west of Mateur this morning to clear the way for the striking advance. Mateur had been held briefly by British forces between November 27 and December 4 in early stages of the Tunisian fighting.

The American and French advances give the Allies control of all territory west of a line between Mateur and Bizerte. This line bisects the great lake of Garaet Achkel, and the only retreat for any enemy troops remaining in the area is through the narrow strips of land along the lake.

The fall of Mateur, eighteen miles southwest of Bizerte and thirty-four

De Gaulle Asked to See Giraud

Invited to Meeting In Africa This Week

ALGIERS, May 3 (AP).—Gen. Henri Giraud has asked Gen. Charles De Gaulle of the Fighting French to meet him in North Africa as soon after May 5 as convenient to conclude an agreement between their respective French elements, it was announced tonight. Giraud's message will be discussed in London by the French National Committee.

The main point at issue recently between the two leaders is understood to have been the form of ruling body that should be set up over French possessions pending liberation of metropolitan France. De Gaulle has sought a provisional government. Giraud has rejected that idea in favor of a joint council which would exercise French national sovereignty until the French people themselves are free to choose their form of government.

Fighting French sources in London said Sunday that De Gaulle had received a suggestion from Giraud that they meet at what the Fighting French described as a "lonely place" outside Algiers. Giraud's statement made public Monday said the invitation was to meet "in a North African city" and that they would go to Algiers after an agreement was reached. Circles close to De Gaulle said Sunday that they doubted he would agree to meet Giraud outside Algiers.

SITUATION STILL IS UNCHANGED

A Fighting French spokesman said in London Monday night that the situation was still unchanged.

The Fighting French leader was ready a month ago to leave London for North Africa but was requested by Gen. Dwight Eisenhower to delay the trip for military reasons. Meanwhile Giraud and De Gaulle have continued negotiations through Gen. Georges Catroux, their liaison officer, and it was expected that the forthcoming meeting would put the finishing touches on an agreement to weld all Frenchmen into fighting amity.

The statement issued by Giraud's headquarters today through Allied Headquarters in North Africa said:

"General Giraud delivered to Gen. Catroux on April 27 his reply to the note of the National Committee, dated April 15.

"He considers that an agreement should now be reached by direct methods in order that this work should be accomplished rapidly and calmly.

"Therefore in his reply to General De Gaulle, dated April 27, he proposed to meet him in a North Africa city as soon after May 5 as would be possible for the latter and then, the agreement concluded, that they proceed together to Algiers."

Ladysmith Crash Kills Officers

Lieut. R. A. Scott, R.C.A., was killed instantly at 3 a.m. on Sunday, and Capt. R. C. Jessop received fatal injuries when the army vehicle in which they were riding crashed through a bridge which spans the E. & N. Railway at Diamond Crossing, one mile north of Ladysmith. Capt. Jessop died at 1 p.m. the same day.

L.W.H. Jones, coroner, will conduct a judicial inquiry today at Camp Nanaimo. Remains are at D. J. Jenkins, Ltd., funeral parlor.

Boeing Plants Will Resume Work Today

VANCOUVER, May 3 (CP). — The four Vancouver plants of the Boeing Aircraft Company of Canada, Ltd., will resume production tomorrow, ending the dispute over rest periods which has kept the plants idle since Wednesday morning, it was announced here tonight by Don Tyerman, public relations officer for Boeing.

Mr. Tyerman said authorization for reopening the plants had been received from Ralph P. Bell, national director general of aircraft production. Mr. Bell gave his authorization for reopening upon receipt of assurance of union officials that workers would return to work with a promise there will be no stoppage of work during regular work periods.

A union letter informed Boeing Aircraft that the employees at a mass meeting today had voted "overwhelmingly to return to work" under conditions of the current agreement with the company which does not provide for rest periods during working hours.

Robert Protests American Action

(Copyright, 1943, by The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP).—Admiral Georges Robert, French High Commissioner of Martinique, disclosed tonight that he had been sent a note to the State Department protesting the United States' action in breaking off relations with Martinique. He urged that the department publish the text of his note.

Admiral Robert cabled this information to The Associated Press in reply to a query asking his views on the State Department's action, announced Friday, abrogating informal agreements with Martinique. Washington acted on grounds that the United States would not "recognize or negotiate with any French representative in the Antilles who remains subservient to or maintains contact with the Vichy regime."

MESSAGE TO ASSOCIATED PRESS

Admiral Robert's message to The Associated Press tonight said:

"The American Government decides, in alleging a certain situation of metropolitan France to annul an accord concluded at a time when this situation already existed.

"It offers nothing else in exchange and refuses, by recalling its consul-general, all possibility of a fresh proposal on my part.

"I can only take note of such a decision, meanwhile protesting, which I have done in a note delivered May 1, and therefore I can see only an advantage in the full publication of the text in the American press by the State Department.

"Admiral Robert.

Halifax Area Retains Lead In Bond Race

Sales in Victoria Less by $500,000

Something of a shock was administered to Vancouver Island citizens Monday when officials of the Vancouver Island Division, National War Finance Committee, revealed that subscriptions to the Fourth Victory Loan to date are approximately $500,000 less than they should be if the quota established for the district is to be attained.

Adding to this setback was word that Greater Victoria had fallen still farther behind Greater Halifax in the inter-community contest between the two districts, the figures, Monday afternoon, being:

Greater Halifax, $2,372,000.

Greater Victoria, $2,033,555.

For the whole of Vancouver Island a total of $2,631,605 had been invested up to yesterday and some satisfaction had been expressed that this was considerably in excess of subscriptions in the Third Victory Loan at a comparable stage last October. That satisfaction was dispelled, however, when it was calculated that the increased quota, averaging 35 per cent for all districts, called for subscriptions totaling $3,132,000.

Officials for the committee said it meant that Vancouver Islanders must be impressed more forcibly with the imperative necessity for success of the loan and must prepare themselves for more drastic measures.

Every Island district reported is behind in its quota to date, Esquimalt having the greatest deficiency due to the fact that military subscriptions, which are figured in the Esquimalt unit, have not yet been compiled.

Detailed results of the campaign to date follow (figures in brackets are the amounts that should have been subscribed to keep up with the present quotas):

Victoria City, $1,248,550 ($1,362,000); Saanich, $229,950 ($160,000); Oak Bay, $351,000 ($366,000); Esquimalt, $134,050 ($264,000); Cowichan, $160,150 ($192,000); Courtenay, $98,850 ($240,000); Alberni, $130,350 ($110,000).

Juvenile Delinquency in City Is Studied by Commissioners

APPOINTMENT of women police officers, juvenile delinquency and venereal disease statistics were discussed at length by Mayor Andrew McGavin and Police Commissioners William H. Davies and Duncan D. McTavish at the office of Chief J. A. McLellan yesterday afternoon.

A letter from the Family Welfare Association of Greater Victoria urging the police commission to appoint women officers was received and filed. Commissioner Davies noted the Salvation Army was also in favor of such a move.

A communication from Mayor Andrew Davison, Calgary, mentioned that only two women officers were employed in that city. Chief Martin Bruton wrote that the Regina police commission was not in favor of women officers. Chief George Smith, Winnipeg, stated in another letter that he employed only one policewoman, and considered male officers quite capable of dealing with juvenile delinquency. Chief J. J. Conrod, Halifax, wrote that his male morality squad handled the juvenile situation with efficiency.

Information received from Adjutant A. P. Telfer, Salvation Army, Los Angeles, stated there had been an increase of 700 per cent in female juvenile delinquency there since the war.

ADD WOMEN POLICE TO CALIFORNIA FORCES

S. G. Spencer, [illegible] officer, gave an account of a girl aged fifteen, another aged sixteen, and two seventeen years of age. The two eldest were picked up by two soldiers and later stranded at Vancouver. Later they were ordered by police to leave Prince Rupert, Vernon and Princeton, and came to Victoria again after stealing money at Vancouver.

Snowden stated two of the girls in the original group of four were warned several times by the police about their conduct. He said the Children's Aid Society thought there should have been some follow-up system after the police warnings.

The welfare officer informed the police commission that seventy unmarried mother reported to the Children's Aid Society in 1941 to make arrangements for their children, and 114 were dealt with in 1942. Of the cases dealt with in 1942, Snowden said eleven were under sixteen years of age, and forty-nine were under twenty-one years of age. The youngest was twelve years of age, and the eldest thirty-nine years.

CURFEW BY-LAW REPEALED

Chief McLellan recalled the city curfew by-law had been repealed in 1923. Commissioner McTavish thought the City Council could be asked to pass another to keep juveniles off the streets late at night.

Claude L. Harrison, city prosecutor, said he regretted that so many parents allowed their children to roam the streets at night. He pointed out a curfew by-law would apply only to the city, and juveniles could cross the boundaries into Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich without hindrance. He quoted a report to show that only 8 per cent of the juveniles dealt with in juvenile court last year were repeaters.

The prosecutor suggested the police commission inquire into the causes of juvenile delinquency and immorality. He said that competent male officers were quite capable of handling cases involving juvenile delinquency.

Commissioner Davies remarked that many girls between the ages of twelve and sixteen years both looked, dressed and acted much older than their actual ages.

Benjamin Acreman, juvenile officer, reported that 223 charges were laid against males and twelve against females in 1941, and in 1942 there were ninety-three charges laid against males and thirteen against females. [illegible] were laid against females juveniles for vagrancy in 1942.

MAYOR CLAIMS MANY CASES NOT NOTED

Mayor McGavin told Acreman he had not given a true picture of juvenile delinquency because many cases never appeared in court. Acreman agreed.

In dealing with general business, the commission received a letter from the Retail Merchants' Association urging that by-laws governing the sale of food other than fruit and vegetables be rigidly enforced. Chief McLellan promised to attend to the matter.

Constables Ray Maitland and Robert Davidson were promoted to first class officers. A salary of $85 per month was set for the chief's secretary. Application of the assistant police station janitor and police matron for increases in salary were tabled for further consideration.

A letter from Royal Canadian Navy headquarters informed the commission that detailed statistics on venereal disease among ratings were not available, but might be obtained from the Provincial Government clinic at Vancouver. Mayor McGavin commented that the commission had been blocked many times in endeavors to secure such information. Commissioners Davies and McTavish also recalled that statistics denied to the commission had many times been quoted unfairly by Government officials.

Chief McLellan produced a copy of a letter from Dr. G. F. Amyot, Provincial health officer, to Hon. George S. Pearson, Provincial Secretary.

SAYS FIGURES HERE ARE HIGHER

The letter asserted attempts had been made to justify the existence of houses of prostitution here by quoting low venereal disease figures, that the Criminal Code of Canada had been disregarded, and that venereal disease figures were higher here than among any other group of armed forces in British Columbia in relation to the numbers concerned.

"It is untrue," Commissioner Davies exclaimed. "Figures received last October showed the figures here were the lowest in Canada. Amyot should prove his statements, or we shall be forced to ask Premier John Hart to call for his resignation."

"Amyot does not know what he is talking about. He has no right to make statements he cannot prove," Mayor McGavin declared.

"His statements are libelous," Commissioner Davies remarked. "Some people are always ready to jump on Victoria," Commissioner McTavish claimed. "There has been no co-operation from Amyot as long as I have been a member of the commission," Commissioner Davies charged. "To the best of my knowledge all those places have been closed for some time. A long time ago they were placed out of bounds to the troops. We have military police here. What are they doing?" Mayor McGavin asked.

On motion of Commissioner Davies it was decided to complain to Mr. Pearson about Dr. Amyot's statements, and also demand that he prove them or publicly apologize.

It was also agreed to demand monthly statements on the number of venereal cases here, which, so far, the commission has been unable to secure from any source.

HOW TO PLAN YOUR SPENDING IN WARTIME
These timely booklets tell many ways to stretch your income

"WHAT can I do to make my income go farther? How can I stretch my pay cheques to buy more War Savings Certificates, pay higher taxes and take care of all my other wartime expenses?"

Here are eight booklets specially written to help answer such questions. For years we have been working on problems of family budgeting. For years families have been coming to us for help in working their way out of money tangles. Out of our experience and study has come a series of practical booklets on planned spending and wise buying.

These helpful booklets tell how to make the most of the family's pay cheques—by better planning and by smarter shopping. We prepared the booklets primarily as a service to our customers. But other families are now finding them so useful in meeting wartime conditions that we have made them available to Canadians everywhere.

Most popular book in the Household series is "The Budget Calendar." Totally different from traditional budget books, it is one budget method that really works. The method is based on actual experience and has been thoroughly tested. Hundreds of families are already enthusiastic about it.

There are now 24 booklets in the Household series. Eight are briefly described below. "The Budget Calendar" will be sent to you absolutely free. You may obtain any or all of the other titles for 2½ cents each, to cover mailing costs. Why don't you send now for the volumes which will help you?

Money Management Principles (MMP). This new booklet gives a simple, practical way to make your income meet your needs.

Money Management—The Budget Calendar (MMBC). Makes budgeting easy and simple. Contains "plan for spending" sheets for every pay day in the year. (Free).

Money Management—the Food Dollar (MMFD). Gives many practical meal plans. Full of ideas on how to save money on food bills.

Stretching the Clothing Dollar (SCD). How to get the most from the money you spend for clothes for the whole family.

Money Management—The Rental Dollar (MMRD). Tells points to check when you select a new home, how to cut moving expenses, how to read your lease.

Money Management—Home Furnishings (MMHF). Tells many ways of making your home attractive. Shows how to give it style and smartness at low cost.

Meat (6). How can you cut your meat bills? How can you recognize good meat before you buy? The answers are in this booklet.

Fabrics (28). Facts about Nylon, Vinyon, casein fibre, and other new fabrics. How to make woolens and cottons last longer.

Bond Sales Still Ahead

Hope $430,000,000 Mark to Be Passed

OTTAWA, May 3 (CP).—Hope that today's subscriptions to the Fourth Victory Loan would boost the total up to more than $430,000,000 when overnight wires are computed was expressed tonight by National War Finance Committee headquarters.

The first week of the three-week drive brought in $372,544,900 and subscriptions have averaged about $62,000,000 daily. If the average is maintained, the $430,000,000 mark should be surpassed. Minimum objective of the loan is $1,100,000,000.

Loan headquarters announced that 386,994 subscribers had bought bonds up to the close of business Saturday, against 331,228 in the first week of the Third Victory Loan last Autumn. On Saturday there were 102,509 subscribers for $59,785,550 against the previous loan's comparable figures of 71,264 for $53,642,850.

Loan headquarters said officers and men of the armed forces had made a "notable showing," highlighted by the report late today from the R.C.A.F. to the end of last week, according to returns which have thus far reached Ottawa. members of air force units across Canada have subscribed for a total of $3,931,950.

Further R.C.A.F. returns are expected soon to put the figure above $5,000,000, well ahead of the grand total of $4,300,000 subscribed in the whole of the Third Victory Loan campaign by air force units.

CANADIAN UNITS PASS WHOLE QUOTA

The army's week-end report announced subscriptions by units in Canada alone comfortably above the objective of $5,265,000 for domestic and overseas units combined. The army figure to date is double the total subscribed in the whole of the last loan.

The army's feat in taking just a week to oversubscribe its loan objective, brought congratulations to all ranks from J. H. Craig, army loan chairman. He reported subscriptions to date numbered 65,000, compared with 32,845 for the entire Third Victory Loan. As between the two loans, the average purchase has risen from about $81 to about $86.

Military District No. 4, Montreal, led with 195 per cent of its quota, followed by M.D. No. 12, Regina, 147 per cent; M.D. No. 1, London, 142 per cent; Petawawa, Ont., 141 per cent; M.D. No. 7, Saint John, N.B., 119 per cent.

The Royal Canadian Navy Atlantic Command has raised $900,000, or 90 per cent of its quota, and the number of ships in port and at sea flying quota pennants has increased to thirty-four.

A harbor duty boat at an eastern port recently capsized and all six of its crew were lost. Their comrades now have paid tribute to their memory by oversubscribing their own quotas sufficiently to fulfill the quota of the lost craft as well.

U.S. Mines

in Harlan County, Ky., where several hundreds of the area's 13,000 coal diggers answered the whistle blasts, a union spokesman said all forty-one mines there would be operating tomorrow.

Some still-idle miners said they hadn't heard about the "truce" announcement—made by Lewis Sunday night twenty-two minutes before President Roosevelt's radio address urging the miners to cease "obstructing our war effort."

Other miners apparently took the U.M.W. leader literally when he set Tuesday as the date.

Other developments in the coal situation:

1. The national policy committee of the U.M.W. met in New York, apparently to discuss the next move. Lewis said the fifteen days' truce would be spent seeking new contracts to replace those expired.

2. The White House said no announcement that official word of Lewis' truce declaration had been received there, and Presidential Secretary Stephen Early, commenting on the fact that President Roosevelt made no reference to the truce in his radio talk, declared the speech contained:

"Not a word or statement that does not hold equally true two days from now, two weeks from now, two months from now or two years from now."

TO CANCEL "FREEZE" ORDER

3. Ickes, while declaring the situation with regard to above-ground coal stocks was "particularly precarious" for steel mills and railroads, said prospects for future production looked good enough to permit cancellation of last week's freeze on in-transit shipments of coal. These had been ordered to help make available supplies to go where most needed.

4. Labor Secretary Frances Perkins, who termed the truce "a wise decision" on the part of Lewis, said Ickes would confer with union leaders and mining operators during the fifteen-day period, to try to bring them together.

5. Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley, of Kentucky, declared he saw little advantage in the Senate's passing the pending Connally Bill to authorize Government seizure of struck plants—because, Barkley said, the President already had taken over the soft coal mines. But some members of Congress urged quick action to outlaw strikes in wartime. Senator Connally said he was ready to support an amendment to his measures which would give the War Labor Board statutory authority to settle disputes in war industries.

MINERS' DEMANDS REMAIN UNCHANGED

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP).—John L. Lewis declared today that the United Mine Workers' demands on the Federal Government in the miners' wage dispute will be the same as the original ones made upon the operators and added that he is "awaiting the initiative from Mr. Ickes."

The principal issues in both the bituminous and anthracite controversies, and which Lewis said still stand, are for a $2-a-day wage increase, underground travel pay and unionization of minor bosses.

At the same time he made his statement on the issues, Lewis broke his silence on President Roosevelt's speech of last night and reiterated the stand of the miners that they "were no longer bound by the no-strike pledge."

"There were many surprising things about the President's speech," Lewis said. "I would not care to say or amplify in any way on the statement I have given you here."

Lewis charged the War Labor Board contravened the no-strike pledge given by labor in 1941.

Fuels Co-ordinator Ickes was directed by Roosevelt to run the coal mines for the Government.

REVIEWS DEALINGS WITH BOARD

In reviewing labor's dealings with the War Labor Board, Lewis said:

"It is plainly evident that the adoption of the 'little steel' formula by the War Labor Board breached the understanding that labor had with representatives of the public, employers and the administration.

"The War Labor Board must accept the full responsibility for distress in the ranks of labor created by their contravention of the understanding and commitments arrived at in the December, 1941, conference."

The U.M.W. chief said the policy committee had approved the acceptance by several district U.M.W. presidents in the soft coal area of positions as members of the regional advisory board set up by Ickes.

German punitive detachment. "The Hitlerites were driving in front of them peaceful citizens—women and children," the communique said. "The guerrillas outflanked the enemy and opened up intense rifle and machine-gun fire. Unable to withstand this fire, the Germans retreated. Fifty-seven dead remained on the battlefield."

The communique also declared that Russian planes in various sectors on Sunday destroyed or damaged at least twenty German trucks, blew up two ammunition dumps, destroyed an enemy freight train, and sank a patrol ship.

President Appeals

a nation-wide coal strike in the middle of a war.

Not once did he mentioned Lewis by name but the whole tenor of his speech was in appeal to the miners, over the head of the U.M.W. president, to return to work coupled with a direct attempt to pin the responsibility for the strike on the labor leader. It was an appeal to the patriotism of the miners, an appeal to place country before union, loyalty to the Government before loyalty to Lewis.

First Bush Wood Arrives for City

To Be Stored for Emergency Cases

First load of 1,000 cords of bush wood being cut for the City Council in Goldstream district by Karma Singh and Jaginder Singh arrived at the Gorbally Road yard yesterday morning, and was inspected by Alderman John A. Worthington, chairman of the water board, and Alderman T. W. Hawkins, chairman of the lands committee.

First and second growth timber and windfalls are being cut into fourteen-inch lengths with power saws at Goldstream and will be stored in the city for emergency cases next Winter.

Loads are being recorded and strict accounts kept by Peter H. Hancock, city storekeeper.

miles northwest of Tunis, was announced by the Allied Command. Axis defence collapsed at many other points before the powerful Allied push and the enemy was falling back over a wide area.

The advance on Bizerte at the coast, made by the French African Corps and Moroccan Goums, represented a four-mile gain from previously known French positions through some of the harshest terrain in Tunisia and more than 500 Axis prisoners were taken in that sector. Americans advanced with this force.

FIGHTING INDECISIVE AROUND PONT DU FAHS

Below the Tunis-Bizerte zone, fighting was indecisive about the Axis supply base of Pont du Fahs.

The French Command announced that a German counter-attack, supported by tanks southeast of Pont du Fahs, had made a slight gain, but that to the east of this action French troops had occupied the Djebel El Dib, near Saouf, and thrust out to the outskirts of the town itself.

From the British Eighth Army in the far south no action had been reported beyond its earlier repulse of an Axis counter-attack in the coastal region northeast of Enfidaville.

In Northern Tunisia, the Germans were pulling out of their positions after a brief lull that had followed nearly two weeks of desperate fighting in which both sides had suffered heavy losses.

Materiel has been important to the enemy not only for its communications—a railroad leads to Ferryville, the dynamo site for the great Bizerte naval base, and highways radiate from it—but also as a supply centre.

The fight over the rugged hills was a costly process and required bitter fighting, including a bayonet charge before the Germans were wiped out or sent fleeing.

TO GIVE LAST LECTURE

R. E. Wemp, field secretary for the British-Israel World Federation, will give the last of a series of lectures on world affairs tonight in First Baptist Church, at 8 o'clock. His topic will be "Responsible Government Without Political Parties." The public is invited.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE QUICKLY AND EASILY
If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.
For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from Modern Pharmacy and Cunningham Drug Stores or any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally in a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.
If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. (Advt.)

A.R.P. Activities

District 5, Saanich—The meeting planned for Wednesday has been postponed indefinitely.

District 10—O. C. Parrott, of Vancouver Island Coach Lines, Ltd., will give an address on transportation at a meeting of wardens to be held in the auditorium of Sir James Douglas School on Wednesday, at 8 p.m. Col. F. G. Hood, district warden, will act as chairman.

District 7, Saanich—A meeting will be held at Hampton Hall on Thursday, at 8 p.m. The general public is invited. A lecture will be given and moving pictures shown on gas warfare.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED

SEATTLE, May 3 (AP).—Federal Judge John C. Bowen today sentenced Mrs. Betty Elliott Gossler, seventeen, convicted of having four ration books, to three years' imprisonment. The sentence was suspended upon the girl's promise of good conduct.

Pulitzer Prizes Are Awarded to Writers, Papers

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP).—Initiative and originality of The Omaha, Neb., World-Herald in planning a successful state-wide campaign for scrap metal, which later was used on a national scale, won for it today the Pulitzer award to the American newspaper rendering "the most disinterested and meritorious public service" in 1942.

Six men in journalism, four men and a woman in literature and a composer were singled out as recipients for Pulitzer accolades.

Robert Frost, New England poet, won his fourth Pulitzer Poetry Prize for "A Witness Tree," and Jay Norwood (Ding) Darling, cartoonist for The New York Herald Tribune, won his second cartoon award for a drawing depicting the Capitol and White House buried under Government reports and handouts and entitled "What a Place for a Wastepaper Salvage Campaign."

An eloquent picture of an Indian sailor in a lifeboat pleading for water won for Frank Noel, of The Associated Press, the news photography prize. The photograph, "Water," was taken by Noel from his lifeboat after his ship had been torpedoed in the Indian Ocean by a Japanese submarine.

AWARD FOR EDITORIAL WRITING

Forrest W. Seymour, of The Des Moines, Iowa, Register and Tribune, was named as the recipient of the award for distinguished editorial writing which was limited to the editorial page of a newspaper. The award committee took into consideration "the whole volume" of the writer's work during the year.

Each prize to an individual was $500. The newspaper received a gold medal valued at $500.

Selection of the Pulitzer Prize winners was made by the trustees of Columbia University on the recommendation of the advisory board of the Graduate School of Journalism.

rapid expansion of the Dominion Navy.

Answering the possible criticism that the new organization falls short because it does not provide for a single command for anti-U-boat war, The Times says practical achievement of complete working harmony is more important than the logical perfection of the machinery employed. Full co-operation between the two navies has been, in essence, achieved and the new arrangements make for simplicity. It should prove adequate and effective.

Stalin's May Day statement, says The Times, is a challenging and wholehearted answer to the supposed lack of understanding in Moscow of the extent of the Anglo-American war effort. No longer can it be pretended that the people of Soviet Russia are left to believe they are carrying the whole war effort.

Marshal Stalin speaks in the warmest terms of what Russia's Allies have done and are doing and promises blows from East and West on Germany. He dismisses in one contemptuous sentence the impudence of the Nazi's attempt to divide the Allies, and repeats that only unconditional surrender by Hitlerite Germany will end war.

Victoria Case Opens

VANCOUVER, May 3 (CP).—Trial opened before Chief Justice Farris and an eight-man jury in Supreme Court here today of an action in which Warehouse Security Finance Co., Ltd., of Victoria, claims damages from Niemi Logging Co., Ltd., and Oscar Niemi, Ltd., of Vancouver. Plaintiff alleges that the defendants disposed of logs at Sechelt Inlet and Centre Bay which were subject to woodmen's liens which had been assigned to the plaintiff.

"COUNCIL OF NATIONS"

CHICAGO, May 3 (AP).—Formation of a "council of nations based on the United Nations" to maintain world order after the defeat of the Axis was advocated today by the Republican Postwar Policy Association. The conference, attended by seventy delegates from twelve Midwestern states, approved a resolution to that effect.

DIES AT CRANBROOK

CRANBROOK, B.C., May 3 (CP).—Paulus Elof Danielson, sixty-four, died here. Born in Sweden he came to Canada in 1911. Surviving are two sons, Ernest and Albin, of Kimberley.

W. H. Cox, Pioneer Victoria Resident Called by Death

After having lived in Victoria for nearly seventy years, William Henry Cox, 187 Joseph Street, died on Sunday in the Royal Jubilee Hospital. He was born in Sapperton, B.C., seventy-nine years ago and was educated at the old Central School here. He had been employed by the city of Victoria for thirty-five years. He was a member of Court Northern Light, Ancient Order of Foresters.

Mr. Cox is survived by his widow, Annie C. Cox, at home; five sons, W. H., Jr., A. J. and R. F., in Victoria; G. F., in Portland, Ore., and C. H., in Victoria; two daughters, Mrs. A. Worth, in Victoria, and Mrs. L. Huber, in California; twelve grandchildren and one great-grandchild; also four sisters, Mrs. W. F. Fullerton, Mrs. A. Tobin, Mrs. L. Borde, Mrs. W. Rennie, all of Victoria, and one brother, H. G. Cox, in Victoria. One son, Arthur J., was killed overseas in 1916.

Funeral will be held from Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel on Wednesday at 2 p.m., Rev. James Hood officiating. Interment in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Open Purchasing Office, Edmonton

MONTREAL, May 4—Establishment by the Canadian National Railways of a purchasing office at Edmonton was announced here today by D. McK. Ford, vice-president in charge of purchases and stores. Mr. Ford also announced that E. A. Marples has been appointed purchasing agent in charge of this office.

Mr. Marples was formerly commissary agent for the company at Edmonton. He will report to T. P. Harris, purchasing agent, Winnipeg, who is in charge of departmental activities for the Western region.

"The extremely heavy increase in purchases necessary for the wartime operation of the National system has necessitated enlarging the scope of the purchasing department in the West," Mr. Ford said in making the announcement.

"Within the Alberta area our purchases last year amounted to a total of over $5,000,000, of which approximately $4,000,000 was for coal and $1,000,000 for lumber, ties and general materials. The opening of a general purchasing office in Edmonton will greatly facilitate the work of the department in the Western region, particularly in Edmonton, which is one of the most important Western centres of the Canadian National."

Bracken at Nelson

NELSON, May 3 (CP).—John Bracken, Leader of the Progressive Conservative party, tonight outlined to Nelson and district residents some of the principles on which he felt this nation should model its future.

His tour of the country, he said, is proving most interesting and most heartening.

OLDEST RESIDENT DIES

KINGSTON, Ont., May 3 (CP).—The oldest resident of Lennox and Addington County, Henry R. Purcell, 103, died at nearby Colebrook yesterday after a brief illness. A personal friend of the late Sir John A. MacDonald, Confederation Prime Minister of Canada, Mr. Purcell was at one time offered the Conservative nomination for the riding but declined.

Sports Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, May 3 (CP).—The other day Baz O'Meara, of The Montreal Star, suggested in his sports column that Fred (Cyclone) Taylor, of Vancouver, would be an ideal man to succeed Frank Calder as president of the National Hockey League. Now there is a suggestion that hits the nail squarely on the head.

Taylor was one of the greatest hockey players who ever lived—some claim the greatest. In recent talk of a hockey hall of fame, the Cyclone's name was most prominently mentioned. He played with two Stanley Cup teams, the Ottawa Silver Seven, in 1909, and Vancouver Millionaires in 1915. He scored 148 goals in 126 games in seven seasons with Vancouver.

Yet Taylor was not only a great player. He is a fine organizer and a successful businessman. He was president of the now-defunct Pacific Coast Hockey League. He is district superintendent of immigration, Pacific Division.

It is doubtful whether Taylor could be induced to leave his present position to become N.H.L. president. Andy Lytle, of The Toronto Star, says Cyclone is too fine a man to be burdened with the headaches of N.H.L.'s highest position.

Yet Lytle sees Taylor as a great man for the position. He writes: "If I had a vote for this hockey office, Fred Taylor would never get it. He is a man who has moulded his life on the principle of the golden rule . . . I do not think he has ever thrown a foul, or dirty punch, in sport or in business, in his life.

"Cyclone Taylor, president of the N.H.L.? They'd break his gentle heart in half a season."

QUESNEL, B.C., May 3 (CP).—Kong Foo, ninety-seven, one of the last of the famous Chinese placer miners, is dead in Quesnel. Born in Canton Province, China, he came to North America when eighteen on a "rag ship" (sailing vessel). For fifty-three years he was actively engaged in placer mining throughout the Cariboo.

Girls Trained In a few weeks

To do exacting work of skilled operators.

With what enthusiasm you tackle the new job. You want to help win the war and here is work which is really worth while.

Naturally so radical a change of occupation may bring a considerable strain on the nervous system and at times you may become chronically tired out, irritable and discouraged.

How are you to keep fit and keep going is the problem. Well, perhaps you may find the answer in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It has helped many a war worker over a tough spot and why shouldn't it help you.

The vitamin B1 and essential food minerals contained in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food seem to be exactly what many people need to help them regain and maintain the health and vigor of the nervous system.

For this reason you are not making much of an experiment when you begin its use. The important point is to use it regularly for a few weeks until you feel that you are real well again and enjoy your work.

Inquest Into Nanaimo Death Is Adjourned

(Special to The Colonist)

NANAIMO, May 3.—The funeral of Mrs. James Hughes was held here today from the Jenkins Chapel, following the opening of an inquest into her death which, after the jury had viewed the body, and Dr. Alan Hall had given a report of the autopsy, was adjourned until Thursday, at the request of A. Leighton, counsel for James Hughes, Cumberland, the woman's husband, whom police have charged with murder.

The nude body of Mrs. Hughes, forty-eight, was found in the car of her husband at 12:30 o'clock Saturday morning. She had been terribly beaten, police state, and had sustained a fractured skull and broken neck. The latter, Dr. Hall explained, would have caused instant death, and the former would have resulted in death within a few hours. Besides this, there were bruises and abrasions which in themselves might have resulted in death from shock.

According to information secured by police, the couple separated about a month ago and Mrs. Hughes came to Nanaimo, where she secured a position as chambermaid at the Plaza Hotel. On Friday Hughes came to Nanaimo, met his wife at the Plaza at 5 p.m., and they left in his car. Piecing the story together since, police believe they went to the Caledonian Grounds, a former football field isolated from travelled roads, and half a mile from where the body was found. There the police have found bits of broken glass, human hair, and other signs which lead them to believe that Mrs. Hughes was killed in the car there. Later they believe Hughes drove up Comox Road to the intersection of Macleary Street.

There he left the car parked in the centre of the road and walked half a mile to the home of a friend, Arthur Young, where he said that his wife would not answer him, and he thought she was dead. Young telephoned police, and went with Hughes to the car. In the meantime Dr. A. Hall had reported the car standing in the roadway to Constable Donald Calquhoun, and drove the latter to the scene.

When they arrived, the constable reported, they saw Hughes bending over the front door.

A.R.P. Instructions To Be Circularized

Because the general public still has doubts regarding blackout instructions and proper response to siren signals, a list of instructions identical to those announced on Sunday will be circularized among business houses and all districts of the city, Inspector A. H. Bishop, A.R.P. controller, said yesterday.

The instructions are being repeated because only 50 per cent of the population here is aware of them and knows what action to take on hearing the sirens, he said. The signals remain the same as those drawn up when the sirens were installed, he said.

The circulars will reach private homes through the school children of the city, Inspector Bishop said.

Took Five Months of Grim Effort to Rescue Airmen

Five Men Died in Persistent Attempts to Bring Party Out From Greenland Ice Cap

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP).—The grim story of the rescue of seven airmen from the Greenland ice gap after five months of persistent attempts in which five men died was told tonight by the United States War Department.

After the failure of various attempts to bring the men out, including use of motor sleds, Col. Bernt Balchen, noted flyer and Arctic explorer and hero of two previous rescues on the ice cap, succeeded in landing a Navy flying boat and taking off on three different occasions—not on water, but on snow.

Three of the rescued airmen, accompanied by Gen. H. H. Arnold, Air Forces Commander, visited President Roosevelt today—Capt. Armand L. Monteverde, Anaheim, Cal.; Lieut. Harry E. Spencer, Dallas, Texas, and Staff Sgt. Don T. Tetley, Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Monteverde was pilot and Spencer co-pilot of a heavy bomber which was being ferried to Great Britain but was diverted last November 9 to search for another plane that was reported overdue.

The other plane never was found and while they were engaged in the unsuccessful search, their own plane crashed near the west coast of Greenland.

PLANE BROKEN, RADIO WRECKED

The plane broke in two, and the radio was wrecked. Sgt. Paul J. Spina, Frankford, N.Y., was the only one seriously injured. He was thrown clear of the plane, broke one arm above the wrist and lost both gloves, so that his hands froze before he could be carried back into the plane. Others of the crew were shaken up.

The crew rigged quarters in the tail of the broken fuselage. High winds and driving snow kept the men inside the crumpled bomber for ten days. Their situation was made more perilous when a fissure opened in the ice beneath the tail section, but they fastened their living quarters to the forward part of the plane with ropes.

Despite the intense cold, Cpl. Loen H. Howart, La Crosse, Wis., got the radio repaired and the stranded men established communication with would-be rescuers.

BALCHEN'S PLANE DROPS SUPPLIES

On the fifteenth day Balchen flew over and dropped supplies. At about the same time Tetley and Lieut. Max H. Demorest, Flint, Mich., set out with two motor sleds from a small weather station not many miles from the crash. They finally reached the scene on foot, went back for their sleds, and then Demorest disappeared with his sled into a crevasse less than 100 yards from the plane. All rescue attempts failed.

Meanwhile, Lieut. John A. Pritchard, Burbank, Cal., a Coast Guard flyer, landed a Grumman plane near the wreck and then flew back to the cutter Northland, taking with him Sgt. Alexander F. Tucciarone, The Bronx, New York, and Staff [illegible]. He returned to the wreck during the attempt to rescue Demorest, but was ordered to take off immediately because fog was closing in. His plane crashed in the takeoff, killing all aboard—Pritchard, Howarth and Radioman Benjamin A. Bottoms, coast guard, Salem, Mass.

The feet of Lieut. William F. O'Hara, Scranton, Pa., had frozen and were gangrenous, so Monteverde put him on a sled and sent him off—Tetley driving the sled and accompanied by Spencer and Pte. Clarence Wedel, Canton, Kas.

WEDEL LOST IN BOTTOMLESS CREVASSE

A mile and a half from the wreck, Wedel dropped into a bottomless crevasse and was lost. Four miles farther on, the sled broke down and the survivors were stranded in two camps. Foul weather and the all but impassable terrain frustrated all attempts to reach them, and they were kept alive by supplies flown in and dropped by the Air Transport Command when the weather permitted.

A ski-plane borrowed from the Maritime Central Airways of Canada attempted to reach them, but was forced down in a fiord when its fuel ran out in bad weather. The pilot and co-pilot made their way back to the rescue base.

In February, Balchen succeeded in landing the navy flying boat beside the sled camp and rescuing all the men there, including O'Hara, who lost both feet. But bad weather prevented a return trip by Balchen until early in April, when he made a second trip carrying a dog team and several men experienced in Arctic work. These succeeded in bringing Monteverde and the others from the plane to the sled camp, and on April 6 Balchen landed his P.B.S. in the snow a third time and flew out with all survivors, including Technical Sgt. Alfred C. Best, Waco, Tex.

Noted Builder of Racing Autos Dies

DETROIT, May 3 (AP).—Harry A. Miller, sixty-eight, internationally-known engineer, designer and builder of racing automobiles, boats and airplanes, died today in hospital after an illness of six weeks.

Miller's famous "Miller Specials" won eleven of the 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway races and hundreds of races on tracks in the United States and Europe.

In 1933 he started to build airplane motors and at the time of his death was working on blueprints for a powerful motor for aviation, using the most horsepower ever attempted, according to William A. Meyers, his chief engineer.

Home-Brewing May Be Legal

Federal Law Permits But Not Provincial

OTTAWA, May 3 (CP).—The legal brewing of beer in the home is a matter between a man and his exciseman.

Told of an Edmonton survey that showed stocks of crocks, wooden tubs, pressed hops, malt and bottle tops—all pointing to beer in the home—were disappearing from the market, excise officials said today that if the situation were associated with complaints of store beer shortages they knew nothing about it.

Actually, the man who brews his own beer may not be committing a crime. He may merely be exercising an ancient privilege that was granted when armored knights decreed that the Englishman's home is his castle.

The law says, first, that a man can brew in his own home. Having said so, it establishes the complications. He can brew only for himself and his family. Before he gets the paraphernalia in operation (getting it is something of a trick these days) he must obtain from his nearest excise official what is called "a letter of consent."

This sounds simple. But the exciseman is curious. He will want to know that the would-be brewer has never been mixed up in any funny liquor business, the type of equipment he is going to use, and who is going to drink the finished product. If the beer is given someone who shouldn't have beer, then the list of penalties is imposing.

DIFFICULTY WITH PROVINCIAL LAWS

But, supposing all the hazards are overcome and the "letter of consent" is obtained, the good citizen may spare a glance at provincial regulations which provide that he cannot have in his possession liquor which was not purchased from a provincial liquor control board.

Then, of course, he can put his amateur photography chemicals in the crocks, the washing in the tubs, feed the malt and the hops to the hens and play checkers with the bottle tops.

However, one authority did suggest that if a man had the "letter of consent" from an excise official, the provincial officials might be inclined to be more tolerant of human weaknesses.

Excise officials said that in the days of prohibition in various parts of Canada, the ancient art of home-brewing received a lively restoration, with thousands of "letters of consent" applied for and granted in just cases.

When "dry" days passed, the Canadian beer drinker found it far more convenient to buy his supplies in the beer parlor or liquor store, and the demand for "letters" declined.

Thus far, in spite of restrictions in the supply of beer, there has been no special demand for permission to brew at home.

"The demand is negligible and there has been no increase lately," an official said.

tack in force on the Nazi submarine base at St. Nazaire, France.

A nineteen-year-old R.A.F. pilot who shot down two of three FW-190's in the Ijmuiden raid, said: "The Huns pounced on us from behind in great numbers and made for both fighters and bombers. There was fierce scrapping."

UNUSUALLY HEAVY LOSS FOR AMERICANS

The raid on St. Nazaire, first expedition for American heavy bombers since they raided Bremen last April 17, brought unusually heavy loss. The loss was taken as an indication of increased Nazi defensive strength, leading observers to believe the Germans were worried about the pounding the port has taken.

The German radio, high as usual in comparison with Allied figures, claimed eleven four-engined American bombers and twelve British torpedo and destroyer planes were downed "in the course of thrusts made against a German strongpoint on the Atlantic coast and in Norwegian waters."

On Friday, the Air Ministry announced, R.A.F. bombers smashed again at the German industrial city of Essen and the neighboring Ruhr district, losing thirteen planes, but giving Essen the distinction of being the most heavily bombed city in the world.

The German industrial city, with a normal population of 654,000 compared with Greater London's 10,000,000, has now been the recipient of more than 10,000 tons of bombs delivered by the R.A.F. in fifty-five missions.

GREAT DAMAGE BY FEWER PLANES

As the R.A.F. closed the books on the first third of the 1943 aerial offensive, these facts were recapitulated:

The R.A.F. is delivering as great a tonnage with 500 to 600 planes now as it did a year ago in the 1,000-plus bomber attacks, one of which was delivered on Essen.

Essen has received considerably more bomb tonnage than has been loosed on London since the war began.

Almost 10,000 tons of bombs were dropped on Germany in ten major raids during April and this, was in addition to several heavy attacks on Italy and occupied territory during the month.

Since the beginning of the year, through April, the R.A.F. has lost 602 bombers in delivering triple the weight of bombs carried on each mission last year.

The rise in bombings resulted in the losses of seventy-five planes in January, 104 in February, 158 in March and 264 in April.

Court of Appeal

Yesterday morning the court dismissed the appeal in Rex vs. Joseph Arthur Walsh, managing director of William Cathcart Co., Ltd. and L. J. Simmons, former police quartermaster, thus winding up the three cases which arose from charges of conspiring to defraud the Provincial Government in police stores deals.

Stuart Henderson, counsel for the appellants, simply restated without argument the points raised in the two previous conspiracy cases. W. C. Moresby, K.C. and J. B. Clearihue, K.C., appeared for the Crown.

The Rex vs. Milton appeal was transferred to Vancouver on the application of E. L. Tait.

Rex vs. Turner was also transferred to Vancouver owing to appeal books not being ready for the present sittings.

Inquest Into Nanaimo Death Is Adjourned

(Special to The Colonist)

NANAIMO, May 3.—The funeral of Mrs. James Hughes was held here today from the Jenkins Chapel following the opening of an inquest into her death which, after the jury had viewed the body, and Dr. Alan Hall had given a report of the autopsy, was adjourned until Thursday, at the request of A. Leighton, counsel for James Hughes, Cumberland, the woman's husband, whom police have charged with murder.

The nude body of Mrs. Hughes, forty-eight, was found in the car of her husband at 12:30 o'clock Saturday morning. She had been terribly beaten, police state, and had sustained a fractured skull and broken neck. The latter, Dr. Hall explained, would have caused instant death, and the former would have resulted in death within a few hours. Besides this, there were bruises and abrasions which in themselves might have resulted in death from shock.

According to information secured by police, the couple separated about a month ago and Mrs. Hughes came to Nanaimo, where she secured a position as chambermaid at the Plaza Hotel. On Friday Hughes came to Nanaimo, met his wife at the Plaza at 5 p.m., and they left in his car. Piecing the story together since, police believe they went to the Caledonian Grounds, a former football field isolated from travelled roads, and half a mile from where the body was found. There the police have found bits of broken glass, human hair, and other signs which lead them to believe that Mrs. Hughes was killed in the car there. Later they believe Hughes drove up Comox Road to the intersection of Maclcary Street.

There he left the car parked in the centre of the road and walked half a mile to the home of a friend, Arthur Young, where he said that his wife would not answer him, and he thought she was dead. Young telephoned police, and went with Hughes to the car. In the meantime Dr. A. Hall had reported the car standing in the roadway to Constable Donald Calquhoun, and drove the latter to the scene.

When they arrived, the constable reported, they saw Hughes bending over the front door.

A.R.P. Instructions To Be Circularized

Because the general public still has doubts regarding blackout instructions and proper response to siren signals, a list of instructions identical to those announced on Sunday will be circularized among business houses and all districts of the city, Inspector A. H. Bishop, A.R.P. controller, said yesterday.

The instructions are being repeated because only 50 per cent of the population here is aware of them and knows what action to take on hearing the sirens, he said. The signals remain the same as those drawn up when the sirens were installed, he said.

The circulars will reach private homes through the school children of the city, Inspector Bishop said.

Took Five Months of Grim Effort to Rescue Airmen

Five Men Died in Persistent Attempts to Bring Party Out From Greenland Ice Cap

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP).—The grim story of the rescue of seven airmen from the Greenland ice gap after five months of persistent attempts in which five men died was told tonight by the United States War Department.

After the failure of various attempts to bring the men out, including use of motor sleds, Col. Bernt Balchen, noted flyer and Arctic explorer and hero of two previous rescues on the ice cap, succeeded in landing a Navy flying boat and taking off on three different occasions—not on water, but on snow.

Three of the rescued airmen accompanied by Gen. H. H. Arnold, Air Forces Commander, visited President Roosevelt today—Capt. Armand L. Monteverde, Anaheim, Cal.; Lieut. Harry E. Spencer, Dallas, Texas, and Staff Sgt. Don T. Tetley, Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Monteverde was pilot and Spencer co-pilot of a heavy bomber which was being ferried to Great Britain but was diverted last November 9 to search for another plane that was reported overdue.

The other plane never was found and while they were engaged in the unsuccessful search their own plane crashed near the west coast of Greenland.

PLANE BROKEN, RADIO WRECKED

The plane broke in two and the radio was wrecked. Sgt. Paul J. Spina, Frankford, N.Y., was the only one seriously injured. He was thrown clear of the plane, broke one arm above the wrist and lost both gloves, so that his hands froze before he could be carried back into the plane. Others of the crew were shaken up.

The crew rigged quarters in the tail of the broken fuselage. High winds and driving snow kept the men inside the crumpled bomber for ten days. Their situation was made more perilous when a fissure opened in the ice beneath the tail section, but they fastened their living quarters to the forward part of the plane with ropes.

Despite the intense cold, Cpl. Loen H. Howart, La Crosse, Wis., got the radio repaired and the stranded men established communication with would-be rescuers.

BALCHEN'S PLANE DROPS SUPPLIES

On the fifteenth day, Balchen flew over and dropped supplies. At about the same time Tetley and Lieut. Max H. Demorest, Flint, Mich., set out with two motor sleds from a small weather station not many miles from the crash. They finally reached the scene on foot, went back for their sleds, and then Demorest disappeared with his sled into a crevasse less than 100 yards from the plane. All rescue attempts failed.

Meanwhile, Lieut. John A. Pritchard, Burbank, Cal., a Coast Guard flyer, landed a Grumman plane near the wreck and then flew back to the cutter Northland, taking with him Sgt. Alexander F. Tucciarone, The Bronx, New York, and Staff Sgt. Lloyd Dorsett, [illegible]. He returned to the wreck during the attempt to rescue Demorest, but was ordered to take off immediately because fog was closing in. His plane crashed in the takeoff, killing all aboard—Pritchard, Howarth and Radioman Benjamin A. Bottoms, coast guard, Salem, Mass.

The feet of Lieut. William F. O'Hara, Scranton, Pa., had frozen and were gangrenous, so Monteverde put him on a sled and sent him off—Tetley driving the sled and accompanied by Spencer and Pte. Clarence Wedel, Canton, Kas.

WEDEL LOST IN BOTTOMLESS CREVASSE

A mile and a half from the wreck, Wedel dropped into a bottomless crevasse and was lost. Four miles farther on, the sled broke down, and the survivors were stranded in two camps. Foul weather and the all but impassable terrain frustrated all attempts to reach them, and they were kept alive by supplies flown in and dropped by the Air Transport Command when the weather permitted.

A ski-plane borrowed from the Maritime Central Airways of Canada attempted to reach them, but was forced down in a fiord when its fuel ran out in bad weather. The pilot and co-pilot made their way back to the rescue base.

In February, Balchen succeeded in landing the navy flying boat beside the sled camp and rescuing all the men there, including O'Hara, who lost both feet. But bad weather prevented a return trip by Balchen until early in April, when he made a second trip, carrying a dog team and several men experienced in Arctic work. These succeeded in bringing Monteverde and the others from the plane to the sled camp, and on April 6 Balchen landed his P.B.S. in the snow a third time and flew out with all survivors, including Technical Sgt. Alfred C. Best, Waco, Tex.

Home-Brewing May Be Legal

Federal Law Permits But Not Provincial

OTTAWA, May 3 (CP).—The legal brewing of beer in the home is a matter between a man and his exciseman.

Told of an Edmonton survey that showed stocks of crocks, wooden tubs, pressed hops mash and bottle tops—all pointing to beer in the home—were disappearing from the market, excise officials said today that if the situation were associated with complaints of store beer shortages they knew nothing about it.

Actually, the man who brews his own beer may not be committing a crime. He may merely be exercising an ancient privilege that was granted when armored knights decreed that the Englishman's home is his castle.

The law says, first, that a man can brew in his own home. Having said so, it establishes the complications. He can brew only for himself and his family. Before he gets the paraphernalia in operation (getting it is something of a trick these days) he must obtain from his nearest excise official what is called "a letter of consent."

This sounds simple. But the exciseman is curious. He will want to know that the would-be brewer has never been mixed up in any funny liquor business, the type of equipment he is going to use, and who is going to drink the finished product. If the beer is given someone who shouldn't have beer, then the list of penalties is imposing.

DIFFICULTY WITH PROVINCIAL LAWS

But, supposing all the hazards are overcome and the "letter of consent" is obtained, the good citizen may spare a glance at provincial regulations which provide that he cannot have in his possession liquor which was not purchased from a provincial liquor control board.

Then, of course, he can put his amateur photography chemicals in the crocks, the washing in the tubs, feed the malt and the hops to the hens and play checkers with the bottle tops.

However, one authority did suggest that if a man had the "letter of consent" from an excise official the provincial officials might be inclined to be more tolerant of human weaknesses.

Excise officials said that in the days of prohibition in various parts of Canada, the ancient art of home-brewing received a lively restoration, with thousands of "letters of consent" applied for and granted in just cases.

HALIFAX LEADS

While Greater Victoria reported $2,033,550 in the Fourth Victory Loan drive up to noon yesterday, it had not then succeeded in catching up to Greater Halifax. Halifax, which took a lead of $135,600 on Saturday, reported a fresh rush of business yesterday, and declined to estimate any total until the day's tally had been made. All that was known, as this was being written, was that Greater Halifax was out in front, and threatened to increase that lead.

The situation on Vancouver Island as a whole was no more pleasing. For the first six days of the drive, Vancouver Island had subscribed $2,632,800 through its general lists; or $500,000 short of where it should have been to hold its percentage of the ultimate quota firmly in line. At the same period, $3,132,000 was the quota proportion for Vancouver Island as a whole. Obviously, then, the situation is one that calls for a greater effort all round. The cure is one that is in everybody's hands. It is to buy more bonds, and buy them now.

Just to freshen memories, Vancouver Island's quota in the drive is a minimum of $9,500,000. Greater Victoria is pledged to raise the following district quotas: Victoria City, $4,100,000; Saanich, $1,075,000; Oak Bay, $1,105,000, and Esquimalt, $800,000. That will hold the quota fort, but will it hold Halifax? Haligonians have gone into this contest as one man. That is the way we must go at it. It is teamwork that will count. Words won't do it. Only bonds, and more bonds, will. Never will there be a sounder or safer investment.

BUREAUCRACY'S SHACKLES

The Fortnightly Law Journal has taken up the question of the growing power of bureaucracy in the Dominion, its dangers, including the menace to individual liberty of the subject, and it to be hoped that it will continue to deal with the matter until the time comes to shake off the shackles with which the country is becoming more and more bound. It is 'concerning' itself with the issue in its broadest aspects, "with the extension of the phrase 'the Crown' to cover every activity in which the socialization of so many enterprises has carried the Government." In Ottawa there is a new and expansive interpretation of what is meant by the "Prerogative of the Crown," and, as The Law Journal says, "under the protective aegis of this shibboleth we have allowed the politician to build up an agency, or series of agencies, for which complete superiority to and immunity from the law is claimed. This, of course, is simply one of the manifestations of bureaucracy in one of its less spectacular disguises."

The Law Journal is wrong in expressing the belief that it seems to stand entirely alone "in calling attention to these very obvious dangers of bureaucracy." Many newspapers in the Dominion have done so, and continue to criticize and condemn the ever-growing power of the central Government decreed in this form. Those who remain supine are, to a large extent, Parliament itself, Provincial Governments almost altogether, and, otherwise, those who subscribe with sycophantish willingness to anything and everything that is done by the Federal authority. The thoughts expressed by the Law Journal have been voiced for a long time past in many quarters of the Dominion. Parliament has been urged to reassert its authority, but the difficulty there is the lack of vision, coupled with the stranglehold the Government possesses on the viewpoints of its followers. Meantime those who are correctly informed about the past, who know of the centuries of struggle it took to secure the rights of parliamentary government, and of the individual freedom enjoyed until bureaucracy set back the hands of the clock, will realize the serious import there is in the warning of The Law Journal in the following:

"No doubt in times of emergency we must surrender some of our democratic privileges, but there must arrive a time when the curtailment of individual freedom becomes a greater emergency than the emergency in the name of which it is sought to take away our liberty. The Privy Council invented this doctrine of emergency out of the whole cloth in order to allow the power of the Dominion Government to override the provincial power over property and civil rights, which is the cornerstone of our whole structure of freedom; but the power of the Dominion, which was thus given right of precedence, was a power to enact laws for the peace, order and good government of Canada, and it is to be doubted whether the setting up of an incubus of bureaucracy, which every day gains a tighter stranglehold, can be classified as either order or good Government. As for peace, there is none now, and it is hard to see how we shall benefit from its return if we then have to wage war to get rid of this all-embracing bureaucracy, that by that time will have us bound hand and foot."

PENALIZING THRIFT

A point in the new regulations affecting income tax that has aroused a good deal of interest and logical criticism in Parliament is the discriminatory treatment of investment incomes. Forcible attention to this was directed by Mr. H. R. Jackman (Toronto-Rosedale), and there is perhaps no better authority on the subject of investment income in the country. The latest budget imposes a $3,000 limitation on investment incomes. In explaining this, Mr. Jackman says: "Every taxpayer in the country is to be forgiven—I use the word 'forgiven' only because it is a convenient one: it does not really mean that a person is currently any better off—half of last year's taxes on all his income except on that part of his income over $3,000 which may come from investments or annuities or under wills or trusts." In other words, some taxpayers are to be "forgiven," but there is discrimination against those of the community who may have investment incomes over and above $3,000. This means that under the plan, euphemistically called "forgiveness," certain income taxpayers benefit, but the advantage does not go to those who receive investment incomes in advance of $3,000.

Mr. Jackman admits that this provision only applies to a relatively small class "politically of no consequence whatsoever, but who have nevertheless in many cases been leaders in the building up of this country, in the organizing of industry and in the assumption of risks, thus making jobs for our people." This class is subjected to "a special burden of taxation." That is what Mr. Jackman calls "an invidous distinction against a class." Moreover, there is the provision that the tax on investment incomes above the $3,000 limit is not to be collected until the taxpayer's death. That means that it is a third succession duty. The Minister of Finance somewhat naively says that such taxpayers may insure themselves against the posthumous liability. Mr. Jackman replies to this by pointing out that but few taxpayers in the investment category can obtain life insurance because they lack the physical qualifications. Those, however, who could, would be taxed again on the amounts of the policies. To make matters worse, says Mr. Jackman, "the more he (the investment income taxpayer) tries to provide for his taxes, the more he will find himself taxed. This limitation applies more to widows and orphans than it does to men in active business." Of its incidence The Montreal Gazette says: "The estate pays, is proportionately reduced, and this notwithstanding the contribution which the creator of the estate has made to society. It is certainly a curious way of rewarding thrift, of providing employment."

What all this means, in brief, is this, according to The Halifax Chronicle: "The man whose income is earned gets the equivalent of a receipt in full for six months' 1942 taxes, while the man whose income comes from investments gets a receipt in full for six months' taxes on the first $3,000 only of investment income, and the Receiver-General, in effect, takes his I.O.U., payable at death, for half the taxes on whatever investment income he has in excess of $3,000. It is hardly fair to penalize the man who by thrifty living has accumulated a nest-egg of investments from which he derives a modest retirement income, and to let the big business executive with a large salary get away with six months' taxes and no strings attached. . . . The man who practises self-denial and over the years saves part of his earnings is to be encouraged. The income from his nest-egg of investments, some of them undoubtedly Victory Bonds, represents the fruits of his labor just as much now as when he was earning and put aside part of his earnings as savings. The effect of this unreal distinction between earned income and investment income is to penalize savings at the very time when savings and thrift should be encouraged in every possible way."

WHERE IT HURTS

The connection between labor disturbances and needed war production becomes quite plain and visible in connection with the trouble which is tying up some 7,000 workers at the Boeing plant in Vancouver. The plant, it has been announced, is producing Catalina flying boats, and numbers of them are still on order for the Royal Canadian Air Force. They will not be fashioned while the trouble continues. The result is delay.

It so happens that the Catalina flying boat, by reason of its long range and excellent cruising qualities, is a key factor in Canada's defences on both ocean coasts, and also of great service in the convoy patrol work off the Maritimes. Every Catalina that can be secured can be used immediately, and to good effect. To halt such production means that there will be gaps and delays. Both are dangerous.

It is slightly ironical that the defence of Pacific Coast ports, including Vancouver, is directly jeopardized by the action taken by strikers at the Vancouver plane factory. The enemy is not insisting upon a ten-minute rest in each hour. Should the occasion and the opportunity arrive, the enemy would have no hesitation in attacking us for sixty minutes in each and every hour. Yet the very machines which might first bring word of such an attempt are held up in production. We say again that, be the differences what they may, cessation of work in wartime is not a remedy. It is a national peril.

LESS NONSENSE

Let's have less nonsense from the Friends of Joe,
We laud, we love him: but the nonsense—no.
Jr. 1940, when we bore the brunt
We could have done, boys, with a Second Front.

A Continent went down a cataract,
But Russia did not think it right to act.
Not ready? No. And who shall call her wrong?
Far better not to strike till you are strong.

Better, perhaps, though this was not our fate
To make new treaties with the man you hate
Alas, these shy manoeuvres had to end
When Hitler leaped upon his largest friend
(And if he'd not, I wonder, by the way,
If Russia would be in the War today).

But who rushed out to aid the giant then?
A giant rich in corn, and oil, and men.
Long, long prepared, and having, so they say,
The most enlightened ruler of the day?
This tiny island antiquated, tired,
Effete, capitalist and uninspired,
This tiny island, wounded in the war
Through taking tyrants on two years before,
This tiny isle of muddles and mistakes—
Having a Front on every wave that breaks!
We might have said "Our shipping's on the stretch—
You shall have all the tanks that you can fetch—
But that is not the way we fight this war.
We give them tanks and take them to the floor.
And now we will not hear from anyone
That it's for us to show we hate the Hun.
It does not profit much to sing this tune.
But those who "prod" cannot be quite immune.
And those who itch to conquer and to kill—
Should waste less time on tube on Tower Hill,
Honor the Kremlin, boys, but now and then
Admit some signs of grace at Number 10.

THE HUMAN SEASONS

Four Seasons fill the measure of the year.
There are four seasons in the mind of man
He has his lusty Spring, when fancy clear
Takes in all beauty with an easy span

He has his Summer, when luxuriously
Spring's honey'd cud of youthful thought he love
To ruminate, and by such dreaming high
Is nearest unto heaven: quiet cover

His soul has in its Autumn, when his wings
He furleth close, contented so to look
On mists in idleness—to let fair things
Pass by unheeded as a threshold brook

He has his Winter too of pale misfeature
Or else he would forego his mortal nature.

THE WEEK

Summary — Generally speaking the conflict continued in its post-Winter lull, before the mounting of the great campaigns of 1943. It was, however, a fighting lull. In Tunisia, Allied forces, ringing the Axis are, pushed steadily forward through the hills from three to twelve miles; stood off two heavy counters by the enemy, and were consolidating the knowledge of the coastal plains from the north, centre and south. Mateur was recaptured. In the East, a six-day German counter-thrust in the Northwestern Caucasus came to an end with heavy losses to the enemy, and with the Russians closer to Novorossisk and finally holding positions gained in the Kuban Valley. The enemy left 7,000 dead on the field, lost 180 planes and upwards of fifty cannon, without material change in positions. In Burma, with the monsoons again at hand, it was acknowledged that the British campaign on the Arakan front had bogged down short of its objective of Akyab. Time, however, had been won, and the enemy kept occupied in that area. No major change was announced from China. Fighting continued in the Yunnan Valley and at several other points. Japanese plane concentrations, flying in formations of fifty machines, were turned aside with losses at mid-week. In the Aleutian Islands, United States and Canadian machines continued shuttle raids against Kiska and Attu enemy installations, and delayed reports said that Holtz Bay and Chicagof harbor had been shelled by United States naval craft in a raid earlier last month. Air sparring featured action in the Southwestern Pacific, with little change of position noted. Allied bombers rapped the Gilbert Islands, Shortland Island, and Vela in the Central Solomons. The enemy replied in a hard raid on Port Darwin with augmented fighter plane escort.

Although the sparring was preliminary, fortressed Europe was taking a pounding by air on three sides, from the west, south and east. R.A.F. and Canadian machines drove hard against Duisberg, Wilhelmshaven, Essen, the Rhine and Ruhr, and ended with a stiff raid on a rail junction in Lorraine. United States machines from British bases kept up day attacks on the occupied coast and inland. From North Africa, Italy sustained stiff raids on Naples, on Grosseto (ninety miles northwest of Rome), on Messina, Palermo, Cagliari and other points in the Italian-Sardinian-Sicilian triangle. From the east, Russian planes drove against Koenigsberg, leaving fires visible sixty miles distance; covered the Strait of Kerch with interceptors, and maintained an even balance, if not superiority, over the scene of the Caucasus fighting itself. In Tunisia itself as many as 1,000-plane sorties were made in a single day, against dwindling enemy airfields and field objectives, and there the enemy had been cut to 2,300 square miles, from 5,500 square miles held three weeks ago. By sea it was the same story. British destroyers rammed into a German convoy off Brittany; sank two supply ships, and hit a third vessel, as well as damaging two escorting craft. "E" boats were in nightly action along the enemy coast from Holland to France, with frequent brushes with the enemy. Four-engined bombers took a hand in laying mines in the Baltic on at least three nights out of the seven. In the Mediterranean, the pursuit of Mussolini's land-bound navy continued. Naples was one indication of that. One Italian light cruiser, two enemy destroyers, a tanker, and a number of supply vessels were sunk or damaged in the Sicilian gap and in the Gulf of Tunis. A sea-and-air bracket was closing on the southern third of Italy, threatening to render its ports useless. One Netherlands and one British destroyer (the Beverley) were sunk in action, though it was not announced where. Submarine warfare continued grimly in the Atlantic, and several distressed merchant crews were picked up at sea.

Diplomatically, the week contained some tinder. Russia split provisionally with Poland over charges Russia said were enemy-inspired. Mediation opened, and seemed to be making headway. The United States split with the French Governor of Martinique, whom it accused of subservience to the puppet regime of Laval in France. Laval one unconfirmed report said, had been injured in a bomb explosion, in what was described as the second attempt on his life. Speaking on May Day, Premier Stalin praised the air drive against Germany from the west, and the Allied joint campaign in Tunisia, and reiterated Russia's intention of fighting until the unconditional surrender of Hitlerite Germany. London reports praised the United States for production now placed at 8,000 planes and 134 new ships per month. The United States second Victory bond drive crossed its $13,000,000,000 quota, and pushed on to $17,000,000,000 at its close. Strikes continued to mar the picture on the home front. Canada's seventh loan issue reached $372,545,000, or slightly more than one-third, after the first week of a three-week drive. [illegible] $1,100,000,000.

$10 BILL AS TEST

Sir,—Referring again to that lost ten dollar bill, as the finder has not claimed the reward, we can only speculate as to what went on in his mind, but it is a safe guess that a familiar phrase played a part, with its subtle suggestion that no responsibility rests upon the finder of a lost article.

Or, as there is a widespread disposition to challenge the origin of all wealth, his thoughts may have gone back to the source of the money, doubtless in the land of this continent, and he may have questioned what right we all have to the land of the New World other than the right of conquest—Nazi doctrine, let him take who can.

Opposed to this are the words of the Psalmist, "The earth is the Lord's and all that therein is," in other words, it belongs to all mankind.

In line with the words of the psalm, a letter in The April Common Sense makes the interesting suggestion that the International Alliance Co-operative, "still the strongest democratic international organization," might take interim possession of all Nazi loot, immediately upon cessation of hostilities.

Miss Peters' letter can be read in our Public Library, and doubtless many will feel that she might have gone further and argued that such a move could well be the first step on the road which we all so eagerly seek—all except certain cliques—the road to eliminate war. In our present system, or lack of system, Nature's wealth tends to stick to the producer class; only in recent years have we been asking if this dual system of masters and workers leads inevitably to war; whether it is right that there should be two such classes; whether consumers ought also to be the producers.

If a visitor from Mars should inquire, "How did your world get that way?" the answer would be Topsy's—it grew. Just so, if Victorians were now to discover an uninhabited island, a similar system would probably develop. Perhaps exact analogy would require that one settler should pre-empt land containing the only drinking water on the island.

There would be poetic justice in turning over to the International Co-operatives temporarily all the recovered property, and the final artistic touch would include a snow storm over Germany of bits of paper bearing the words, "The stone which the builders rejected is become the head of the corner." Perusal of these words would hardly constitute a capital crime; for Hitler would think the reference was to himself.

A following blizzard might set forth the plan suggested above and go far to satisfy the German people that the Allies had other programmes than those set forth by Theodore Kaufman in his book "Germany Must Perish."

BATHING IN THE NUDE

Sir,—If you can squeeze me in between chlorination and the dog nuisance, I should like to make a suggestion that may perhaps shock some of your conservative readers.

We hear a lot about saving materials of one kind and another these days, and lots of us are learning good lessons on avoiding waste, which I hope may serve as well in postwar years. As a mother of three growing boys it occured to me the other day that swimming days are nearly here again and that will mean new pairs of swim trunks for my up-and-comings. Now, innumerable other mothers are thinking, or are about to think, the same thought, to fill the same need. I thought of the yards and yards of material needed to make all those garments, the hours of precious labor to be spent in fabricating the material an making the garments, labor so sorely needed in war effort, all to render allegedly decent a crowd of youngsters who would infinitely sooner be without them anyway, if left to their own resources.

I am going to suggest that authorities co-operate in saving by relaxing regulations concerning bathing costumes for our boys. On the principal beaches of course they must wear something, but in the odd nooks and swimming holes boys love to swim in lakes and rivers and their choice, I know, and a means of saving. I'd put the money I saved on trunks into War Savings Stamps for my boys. Encourage the boys to use the swimming holes and keep the big beaches quiet and free for our tired war-workers.

After all, our Russian allies have practised nude bathing for years past for all ages and both sexes. Would you say that they are a nation of moral or physical degenerates? The rest of the world would be in a sorry plight today if they were. (Mrs.) G. D. HILLINGTON.

SCARLET RUNNER BEAN

Sir,—Your supplement to The Daily Colonist of 11th instant contained some useful and interesting information relative to the use of dried beans for Winter food. But the author did not include the best type and, perhaps, the most nutritious of all. I mean the scarlet runner bean. As an article of diet it is strange that this delicious bean should not have come into popular use. I have waited during the past fortnight for someone of an abler turn of mind to extol its praises, but failing one, I offer my recommendation to all who seek to supplement their daily bill of fare with something not hitherto advertised. Prepared as are all other dried beans, they stew splendidly. But if, after being stewed, they are shot into a thick curry gravy, using only the best, or Bombay curry powder, lovers of curry will call for more.

Growing these beans on pojes is a mistake; grow them on the ground and pinch off the tip of all buds. JOHN WHEELER.

WARTIME HOUSING

Sir,—The reports being circulated regarding cost and construction for wartime houses, originate with someone who has a vivid imagination but who lacks facts and the truth.

Contrary to these reports, an interview with a tenant who has lived in one of these houses for at least six months would prove that they have never been so warm and comfortable as they were during that time. The rent paid is reasonable, especially when compared with that of other homes in Victoria.

Houses built under the Wartime Housing plan in James Bay district have concrete foundations, brick chimneys, and the best cedar siding obtainable. All lumber used is the best allowed by the timber controller for the building of homes at the present time. For the interiors, Gyproc plaster-board is used because it is so serviceable, even though it costs more than plaster.

With regard to total cost . . . could any man build for himself a house of this type for less than $2,000? Yet reports are spread that cost sometimes runs as high as $3,500. Total cost does go higher when new roads have to be built, when sewers, light-poles and water-lines have to be installed.

We feel assured that if an interview was granted with all tenants, you would find at least 90 per cent of them well satisfied with their homes. It is only natural that you would also find those few who would not be satisfied with the most expensive home on our Island.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0:00 to 24:00 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. When there is either in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during the successive time periods without turning.

To find the depth of water on the sill at the Esquimalt Drydock at any tide, add 20 feet to the height of high water as above given.

MERCHANT SHIP SUNK

Immediate transportation of thousands of West Coast Japanese from the semi-liberty of war relocation centres to the strict discipline of military detention camps is planned by the United States. At present there are 107,000 Japanese held at ten centres in Arkansas, Arizona, California, Idaho, Utah, Colorado and Wyoming. Of those held, 30,000 Japanese are considered dangerous.

In Honduras the natives cut mahogany trees only during the rainy season and custom decrees that logging shall be done during the light of a waning moon. . . . In London last year, 9,000 persons were arrested for drunkenness, compared with 12,000 in 1941 and 30,000 in 1938, the year before the war. . . . Consumers have been promised lower prices for meat, fish, canned vegetables, coffee and other staples by the Office of Price Administration in the United States. The following four-point price programme was announced on Sunday: Extension of price control to every important commodity; rolling back of prices which have got out of hand; establishment of specific dollars and cents prices for foods, and the bringing to justice of chiselers, food racketeers and black market operators. . . . Note from a commercial traveler: "They can say what they like about chlorinated water having no taste, but on my Summer visits to Duncan I can always notice the nasty taste in the city's chemically-treated water." . . . Letter from a Saanich landowner: "Water from Elk Lake is now being treated with chlorine and ammonia, the process being known as chloramination. The water both tastes and smells bad." . . . From the Keating Squire: "Saanich has nine deep wells of pure, cool and soft water that cannot be contaminated at the source. From one of them 28,000 gallons of water was pumped in fifty-four hours and the level remained constant. If the city wants pure water free from poisonous chlorine, let the City Council make arrangements to purchase water from the Saanich Council.

Canada's Honor Roll

OTTAWA, May 3 (CP).—The Canadian (Active) Army, in its 299th overseas casualty list of the war, containing nine names, tonight named one man who previously was reported missing as now for official purposes presumed killed in action. Defence headquarters said he fought at Dieppe.

The list also named six men who have died, one who is dangerously ill and one seriously ill. Defence headquarters said these casualties were not connected with any specific operation.

Following is the list:

PREVIOUSLY REPORTED MISSING NOW FOR OFFICIAL PURPOSES PRESUMED KILLED IN ACTION

Quebec Regiment—Lieut. John David Colson, Hamstead, Que.

DIED

Central Ontario Regiment—Capt. Hugh Stanton McRae, Winnipeg.

Canadian Armored Corps—L.-Cpl. William Donald Gould, Golden, B.C.

Royal Canadian Engineers—Spr. John Henry Northcott, Stokes Bay, Ont.

Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island Regiment—Pte. Leslie Mason, Evansville, Pictou County, N.S.

Royal Canadian Army Service Corps—Pte. August Sangret, Maidstone, Sask.

Canadian Provost Corps—L.-Cpl. James Harvard Bedlington, Toronto.

DANGEROUSLY ILL

Canadian Armored Corps—Tr. Walter Gibson, Fort William.

SERIOUSLY ILL

GERMANS AT RHODES

LONDON, May 3 (CP).—The B.B.C. broadcast reports from Istanbul tonight say that German troops have arrived at the Italian island of Rhodes, in the Aegean Sea, near the Turkish Coast.

Nurses' Week Will Be From May 9-16

Lieutenant-Governor W. C. Woodward has issued a proclamation declaring that the week of May 9 to 16, inclusive, is to be known as Nurses' Week throughout the Province of British Columbia.

Arrangements for the week's activities are in the hands of the Registered Nurses' Association of British Columbia, local chapters of that organization, alumnae of hospital training schools, clergymen, civic and school authorities and administrators of hospitals.

In many cities and towns throughout the Province hospitals will be toured by schoolgirl groups who are considering nursing as a career.

Demonstrations of the activities of nurses are being planned in many centres. Registered nurses will be available to address women's organizations, service clubs and interested young women in school or church groups.

Germans Claim Many Sinkings

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP).—The German High Command today claimed German air and naval forces have sunk twenty-one Allied war vessels ranging from motor torpedo boats to an aircraft carrier, and sixty-three merchantmen (totaling 423,000 tons in April.

A German statement April 25 that a Nazi submarine sank the 14,500-ton United States aircraft carrier Ranger in the North Atlantic was promptly denied by the United States Navy Department. Nor was there Allied confirmation of the other figures.

The German communique broadcast from Berlin and recorded by The Associated Press, credited U-boats with the destruction of six of the warships—one aircraft carrier, one cruiser, three destroyers, and one enemy submarine, and 415,000 tons of the merchantmen.

V.I. Pipers' Society Will Meet Saturday

A meeting of the Vancouver Island Pipers' Society will be held next Saturday in the auditorium of the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion, 715 View Street, at 8 p.m. Pipers will attend with pipes and assist in the musical part of the programme.

The meeting is being held on the second Saturday in the month instead of the first, in order that the society may have the decision of the court with reference to the case against the Vancouver piper, John Sutherland; also that the society may be able to receive a report from the committee appointed recently to interview the Attorney-General.

INVERMERE, B.C., May 3 (CP).—Dr. Philip W. Turnor, eighty, is dead here. Born at Gibraltar, he lived in Bermuda and Halifax before going to England for his medical training. He practised during the first Great War and until 1919. Surviving are his widow and two daughters.

According to Culbertson

An opening shutout bid carries with it the strident warning that partner should be conservative about doubling the opponents. For one thing, this shutout bid announces virtually no defensive strength; for another, it implies that the deal may be a terrific "freak." South ignored these warnings in the following hand and ended up a rad but wiser man.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
4 ♦	4 ♥	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

South figured that he could count on at least his three aces for defensive tricks and that his singleton in partner's suit made a couple of diamond tricks highly probable, but he soon found that he had miscalculated. On the singleton diamond opening dummy (West) won with the ace and returned the club. North put in the jack, declarer covered with the king, and South won with the ace. South then returned the ace and another heart to cut down dummy's ruffing power, but declarer merely conceded another trick to North's club queen and then claimed the balance and his contract.

South's double had been nothing if not premature. With an excellent seven card spade suit in his own hand and with at least the suspicion that the opponents probably had freak hands that might fit perfectly, South unquestionably should have bid four spades rather than double four hearts. West undoubtedly would have jumped on the four spade bid with a stentorious double, which both North and East would have had to accept since both would have been deathly afraid to make another bid at the five level.

Despite West's concentration of trumps the four spade contract would have been fulfilled. West's opening would be the heart king. Declarer would win and immediately play a singleton diamond toward dummy. West would put up the ace and make the best return of a heart. This would be ruffed with dummy's spade king, and declarer would immediately discard clubs on dummy's diamonds. East's failure to interrupt this process by ruffing would, of course, tell declarer that all the trumps were in West's hand, and would dictate an easy line of play. He would ruff the fourth round of diamonds with the spade deuce, cash the club ace, then exit with the nine or eight of spades. West would win and return his remaining heart. Declarer would ruff with the spade four, cash the ace, and exit with a low trump. West, on winning, would have to return a trump from his 3-2 up to declarer's Q-8 and thus the defenders would be held to two spade tricks and one diamond.

Conscription of Labor Urged—Universal conscription of all men between the ages of 18 and 60 for essential wartime service at wages fixed by the Government is the recommendation of Mr. John H. Tonkin in his shipyard commission minority report, which was made public yesterday. He contends that such action will be the only sure way of stabilizing labor conditions, reducing cost of production, and likewise the cost of living. He states that under the conditions of the past year no contractor in British Columbia can consider entering into any contract for shipbuilding for the reason that he cannot see what demands labor will make upon him.

The Celebration Finances—A meeting of the finance committee in connection with the Queen's birthday celebration was held last evening at the City Hall. The principal business was the reception of reports from the canvassers, and on the strength of these it was decided to report to the general committee that the subscriptions of the citizens would reach $3,500. This will give the general committee substantial ground to work on.

The Mail Subsidy—The arrival of the G. B. Wright yesterday affords the Government an opportunity of putting itself in communication with her owners and ascertaining the lowest figure they will accept for placing their boat in the direct trade between this port and San Francisco, making, say, two trips per month. We hear the Wright will accommodate thirty passengers and carry 170 tons of freight. If anything is to be done to win back the traffic with California we have enjoyed, now is the time to do it.

Money for Operation Buys Bonds

Blind Woman Makes Generous Sacrifice

PORT ARTHUR, May 3 (CP).—A naval escort vessel was christened here today by Mrs. Pat Morrisey, sixty-four, who bought Fourth Victory Loan Bonds with $900 she had saved for an operation to regain her sight, lost in an accident six years ago.

Mrs. Morrisey, wife of a pipefitter in a Port Arthur shipyard, was the first to purchase bonds through the loan committee in the shipyard. She had saved for several years in the hope surgeons would be able to restore vision in at least one eye. A month ago she learned the operation might not be successful and decided to use the money to buy war bonds instead.

Lieut. J. Goldby, D.S.C., first Canadian naval officer to receive a decoration in this war, escorted Mrs. Morrisey from her home to the scene of the launching.

Some 1,600 shipyard workers and officials watched the ceremony. But Mrs. Morrisey's husband stayed at his war job in the pipe shop.

Governor-General Arrives at Seattle

SEATTLE, May 3 (AP).—Canada's Governor-General, the Earl of Athlone, and his Royal wife, Princess Alice, arrived here by boat late tonight for several days' visit in the Pacific Northwest.

They were greeted with colorful civil and military formalities.

A white-gloved unit of military police stood rigidly at attention outside the hotel while the Governor-General, in the uniform of a British major-general, inspected the honor guard.

The Governor-General and his party will spend three days in the Puget Sound area before proceeding to Portland for an inspection of the shipyards. They will visit war industries here and at Tacoma and Bremerton. Tomorrow they will go to Olmypia for an informal luncheon with Governor Arthur B. Langlie at the Governor's Mansion.

Hearings Start On Living Bonus

OTTAWA, May 3 (CP).—The National War Labor Board tomorrow will begin hearing representations in connection with its general inquiry into labor relations, the cost-of-living bonus, labor legislation and associated topics.

Briefs by several labor and management organizations are scheduled to be heard by the board this week, but there has been no indication how long the inquiry may take.

Mr. Justice C. P. McTague, of Toronto, chairman of the board, will preside at the hearings.

Tomorrow representatives of the Labor Department will make statements to the board outlining the background and operation of labor legislation and particularly of war-time labor measures. The board will also receive a brief from the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

On Wednesday representations will be heard from the Railway Brotherhoods, the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Canadian and Catholic Federation of Labor. On Thursday briefs are to be presented by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Through the Soup to Japanese on Kiska

Skimming over the icy waters of the Bering Sea these B-24 Liberator bombers approach their target, none other than the Japanese-held fog-bound island of Kiska, in the Aleutians. Daily American or Canadian planes, carrying tons of bombs, blast the Japanese bases that threaten the Pacific Coast.

C. L. Shaw Takes Up New Position

Charles Lugrin Shaw, well-known British Columbia newspaperman and recently financial editor of The Vancouver Daily Province, has been appointed editorial director for Canada for Miller Freeman Publications, with offices in the Royal Bank Building, Vancouver, it was learned here yesterday.

Mr. Shaw, a native son of Victoria, is a former city editor of The Colonist, of which his grandfather, C. H. Lugrin, was for many years editor.

Miller Freeman Publications publishes, among other magazines, The Log, West Coast Lumberman, Mining World and Western Contractor and Engineer.

Parent-Teacher Associations

BURNSIDE

The May meeting of the Burnside P.-T.A. has been postponed for one week until Wednesday, May 12, to enable members to hear the address by Dr. F. R. Laycock, in the Central School Auditorium, on Wednesday evening.

QUADRA

The Quadra Parent-Teacher Association is sponsoring a Spring tea on Wednesday, at 3 o'clock, in the auditorium. There will be a programme by pupils of the school.

SIR JAMES DOUGLAS

The meeting of the Sir James Douglas P.-T.A. has been postponed and will be held Tuesday, May 11, at 8 o'clock, in the auditorium. This being the last meeting of the season the new officers will be elected for the coming term.

Woolworth While Girls

Nearly three hundred guests attended the first anniversary dance of the Woolworth While Girls' Club, held at the Crystal Garden on Saturday.

A floor show by pupils of Miss Florence Clough was a feature attraction of the evening. Several novelty prizes were won in spot dances.

At 12:30 Miss Grace MacLeod cut a large and beautifully decorated birthday cake, which she had generously donated to the club for the occasion and all present received a piece of the anniversary cake.

The proceeds from the dance will aid the Merchant Marine.

The regular meeting of the club was held Monday night. Knitting for the Overseas League and Merchant Seamen is progressing.

"Fresh Fields" to Be Presented at Little Theatre

"Fresh Fields," a comedy in three acts by the well-known actor-author, Ivor Novello, will be presented by members of the Victoria Little Theatre on Friday and Saturday, the curtain rising at 8:15 o'clock. This amusing play is the third major attraction to be presented this season by the Little Theatre group and will feature Margaret Hincks and Elizabeth Smith in the respective roles of Lady Mary Crabbe (a widow) and her unmarried sister, Lady Lilian Bedworthy. Edith Gibson will play the role of Mrs. Pidgeon, the amiable nouveau-riche from Australia. The plot of "Fresh Fields" is well drawn, the dialogue sparkling, and this will be the first opportunity Victoria audiences have had to see this play either on the stage or screen.

Chapter Convenes Tea To Be Held at Jubilee Hospital

A tea to be held at the Royal Jubilee Hospital on May 12 will be convened by members of Florence Nightingale Chapter, I.O.D.E., under management of Mrs. R. Duncan, it was announced at a meeting of the chapter held yesterday afternoon at headquarters.

Mrs. A. G. Moody reported on the gifts to the Solarium, and it was announced the sun room of the hospital had been decorated for Easter and all patients supplied with chocolates and Easter eggs. It was decided to tune the piano for the sun room.

Mrs. F. W. Baylis gave a report on the recent provincial annual meeting held in Vancouver, attended by eleven members from the chapter, and Mrs. K. Mills carried the standard.

Mrs. H. Catterall stressed the need for field comforts in Britain.

Echoes secretary, Mrs. Fyfe, reported the Empire Day ceremony at Queen Victoria Statue in Parliament Square will be held May 21, and that members will attend First Baptist Church on May 30 for intercession service. She also said Mrs. A. H. C. Phipps has been appointed war savings convener.

Women's Institutes

ROYAL OAK

The annual flower show sponsored by the Royal Oak Women's Institute will be held in the Royal Oak Hall on Wednesday, from 3 to 5 o'clock.

GANGES

At the quarterly meeting of the Ganges Women's Institute recently held, appeals were heard from the Queen Alexandra Solarium and the Mrs. Winston Churchill fund. In response the former received $5 and the latter $15. Another request from the Red Cross asking that jam be made for overseas, was left for decision until the next meeting.

The president, Mrs. B. G. Wolfe-Merton, who was in the chair, gave an account of the progress made in connection with the proposed baby clinic, the space available in the Lady Minto Hospital not being sufficiently adequate. Further inquiries are being made before a decision is reached in respect to headquarters.

The treasurer's report showed a balance of $24.

Members reported having a large quantity of fat and other salvage on hand and it was stated that anyone having salvage of any description were asked to leave it on Mouats' lumber wharf, where it will be collected.

Following a discussion on the rose show, to be held in June, the following were elected on the committee with Mrs. N. W. Wilson, convener: Mrs. A. B. Elliot, Mrs. T. F. Speed, Mrs. D. Fyvie. Tea will be in charge of Mrs. Wolfe-Merton, assisted by Mrs. J. C. Kingsbury, Mrs. W. M. Mouat, Mrs. W. M. Palmer, Mrs. J. Byron and others. Mr. J. Nunns, Sidney, will be asked to judge and Mrs. Charlesworth has undertaken to type the programmes and have them ready at an early date.

Mrs. Charlesworth was the winner of a small contest held for the purpose of raising money for war savings stamps.

Tea was served following the adjournment of the meeting.

MANY SHIPS HIT

LONDON, May 3 (CP).—British submarines have destroyed or damaged 204 Axis ships on the Mediterranean "death run" since the Allied landings in French North Africa last November 8, it was announced today. Of these, 110 were listed as definitely known sunk and it was said many of the damaged vessels may have been unable to reach port.

Native Daughters Elect Officers at Ladysmith Session

LADYSMITH, B.C., May 3 (CP).—Grand Lodge of Native Daughters of British Columbia chose the following new officers for the 1943-44 term:

Grand past chief factor, Mrs. E. M. Lowe, of Ladysmith; grand chief factor, Miss M. Menzies, of Vancouver; grand vice-factor, Mrs. H. Grocock, of New Westminster; grand chaplain, Mrs. M. Davies, of Victoria; grand chief guide, Mrs. N. Laird, of Nanaimo; grand inner sentinel, Mrs. L. Howarth, of Ladysmith; grand outer sentinel, Mrs. George Wight, of Victoria; grand secretary, Mrs. R. McRae, of Vancouver; grand treasurer, Miss D. Thomson, of Nanaimo; grand historian, Mrs. Cahoon, of New Westminster.

The all-day session held Saturday included a luncheon also attended by Native Sons of British Columbia in annual session at Ladysmith and Grand Factor E. Cotton, New Westminster, addressed the assembly.

Afternoon session was marked by joint installation of officers with the Native Sons, and awarding of the Harrison Cup to Post No. 4, New Westminster, and the Paterson Cup to Post No. 5, Ladysmith.

An executive meeting was held Friday evening at the home of the grand factor, Mrs. E. M. Lowe.

The Danger of Coughs Among the Children

In young children a cold or cough is not a thing to be disregarded, as it is often of a grave matter, and unless attended to immediately may, eventually, cause serious trouble.

On the first sign of a cough or cold the mother will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy to help get rid of the trouble.

Its promptness and effectiveness in loosening the phlegm, and stimulating the bronchial organs is such that the cough may be checked before anything of a serious nature sets in.

Price 35c a bottle; the large family size, about 3 times as much, 60c, at all drug counters.

Mrs. H. A. Barnett, Monterey Avenue, is leaving for Vancouver today and will return early next week. She will attend the marriage of her daughter, Miss Doris Muriel Barnett, in Vancouver at the end of the week, when she will be joined by Mr. Barnett.

Captain and Mrs. M. C. Robinson will return to their home in Vancouver this afternoon after spending the week-end at the Empress Hotel. They came to visit their daughter, Lieut. Valerie Robinson, who led an R.C.A.F. (W.D.) contingent in the Victory Loan parade on Saturday.

The many friends of Mrs. O'Farrell, formerly well known in theatrical circles here as Mabel Hickman, will regret to learn that her son, Denis, is reported missing and believed killed. Word came to Victoria through Mrs. O'Farrell's brother, Sgt. Bernard Hickman, 27th Regiment, R.C.A.

Mrs. J. E. McNeil, of Macleod, Alberta, and her daughter, Miss Helen McNeil, are the guests of Mrs. Claude Gardiner, Faithful Street, having come to attend the graduation exercises of the Royal Jubilee Hospital on Thursday when Miss Muriel McNeil will be among those graduating.

Mrs. C. N. Westwood, Cadboro Bay Road, and Mrs. J. Porter, Cedar Hill Road, have returned to their homes in Victoria after a trip to Yorkton, Sask., to attend the presentation of wings to the latter's son, J. E. Porter. P.O. Porter is now spending a week's leave with his parents.

Mrs. Dezso Mahalek, well known singer of Vancouver, and Mrs. Adams, of Winnipeg, returned to Vancouver yesterday afternoon after spending the week-end here, staying at the Windermere Hotel. They spent Sunday visiting old Winnipeg friends, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lisle, at Deep Cove.

Recent guests at the Shawnigan Beach Hotel: Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Gibbard and son, Mr. Harry Fuller, Mr. R. E. Webster, Surgeon Lieut. and Mrs. John L. Russel, of Victoria; Sgt. D. Mackenzie, Sgt. G. Hoppin, Pilot Officer H. P. Florence, Second Lieut. M. D. Florence, Pilot Officer W. H. Parkinson, Pilot Officer H. Medland, of Sidney, V.I., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Hamrick, of Seattle.

Her Eighty-Sixth Birthday Was "A Happy Day!"

MRS. JANE DUVAL

WHO celebrated her eighty-sixth birthday on Sunday when she was at home to a large number of friends at her home on West Saanich Road. Mrs. Duval is a well-known Royal Oak pioneer, and is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cheeseman, who came to Victoria on the historic Norman Morrison, round the Horn in 1853. She has spent all her life in Saanich, and has been a widow for the past eleven years. Her family includes three sons, Louis, in the United States; William, Island Highway, and Fred N., West Saanich Road, and one daughter, Mrs. W. P. Rankin, Craigflower. Her birthday brought her great happiness, she said, and added, "the phone rang all day!" In September Mrs. Duval sustained a fractured leg, and was in hospital six months, returning home some two months ago, but her spirits are cheery, and she is thoroughly enjoying life.

Members of the 1943 graduating class of the Royal Jubilee Hospital were guests of honor at a delightful tea given yesterday by the Jubilee Hospital Alumnae Association at the Oakbay Beach Hotel. The guests, numbering about eighty, included the class members, the alumnae and Miss L. Mitchell, superintendent of nurses, were received by Mrs. D. McLoud, president of the alumnae, and Miss Alexander and Miss Brookes, presidents of the graduating classes. Tea tables were arranged with yellow tulips and bluebells, the alumnae colors, and sprays of almond blossoms were used as decoration throughout the lounge. Miss D. Gifford convened the tea. Those assisting in serving were Miss P. Barbour, Miss McMillan, Mrs. G. Graham, Mrs. Davies, Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. D. Smith and Mrs. M. Hoffmeister.

The baby son of Rev. and Mrs. Michael Coleman, of Victoria, was among the three grandchildren christened by the maternal grandfather, Rev. Canon Harold King, in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Vancouver, Sunday afternoon. The trio of babies, all born within a single month, the eldest now but two and a half months old, are Ruth Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Minchin; Norman Herbert, son of Flt. Lt. the Rev. and Mrs. W. Campbell Dalnel, of North Vancouver, and Michael Garland, son of Rev. and Mrs. Michael Coleman, of Victoria. Following the baptismal rites, Mrs. King entertained at an informal party at St. Paul's rectory. Mrs. Coleman and daughter, Rosemary, who have been guests of Canon and Mrs. King for some time, returned to Victoria yesterday to join Mr. Coleman, who has taken a house at Cadboro Bay.

Ensemble Music Programme Aids Myra Hess Fund

A delightful programme of ensemble music was given last evening at the Victoria Truth Centre, Fort Street, under the auspices of the Intermediate Group of the Victoria Musical Art Society. The net proceeds, amounting to more than fifty dollars, will be given to the Myra Hess Fund. This fund is used to pay musicians who take part in the famous National Gallery concerts in London, which have continued under the guidance of Dame Myra Hess, the renowned British pianist, for five days a week since October, 1939.

The enterprising concert last evening was performed by talented student members of the group, assisted by Barbara Blackstone, soprano, and Alexandra McGavin and Elizabeth Angus, pianists, featuring the music of J. S. Bach, Schubert, Robert Franz and others.

Barbara Blackstone, Phyllis Hick, violinist, and Bernard Hick, pianist, opened the programme with two works by Bach, "Ah, I Will Follow With Gladness" (St. John Passion) and "On My Shepherd I Rely" (Cantata No. 92), which were performed in a reverent mood, and later Miss Blackstone, with Miss Alexandra McGavin, pianist, gave great pleasure with a nicely contrasted group of lieder. "Where Sorrows Touch Me Nearest" (Franz), "His Coming" (Franz), and by Schubert, "To Music" and "Impatience."

The singing violins of Patricia Straughan and Marie Vowles, with Helen McRae at the piano, were heard in two movements from the famous double Bach Concerto in D Minor (Vivace and Largo), and received well-merited applause for their musical performance. Vocal trios sung by Georgina Moore, Jean Dumerton and Patricia Straughan, were well chosen, suiting their fresh young voices. Their accompaniments were admirably played by John Beckwith, and the last number, "My Lady Daffodil" (Thayer), had to be repeated.

Fine ensemble playing was realized by Vera Wood and Gwen Woodcock in their piano duos: "Malaguena" (Lecuona) and "Spanish Dance No. 3" (Moszkowski), played with spirit and finesse.

The concert closed with the Adagio and Rondo from the Piano Quartette by Schubert, the performers being Julia Kent-Jones, violinist; Rita Nevard, 'cellist; Elizabeth Angus, pianist, and Gilbert Margison, violist. It was a refreshing presentation, played gracefully and rhythmically, with keenly-marked dynamics.

Weddings

GILMOUR-COPLEY

The marriage between Alice Muriel, only daughter of Mrs. Copley, and the late Mr. Charles Copley, and A.B. William Gilmour, R.C.N.V.R., eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Gilmour, Vancouver, took place at the home of the bride's mother, 1362 Lang Street, on May 1, Rev. Thomas Menzies officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. R. S. Wild, and wore a powder blue crepe dress with a fawn hat and accessories, and a corsage bouquet of red roses. Miss Vera Freedlander was bridesmaid, in a light blue dress with blue accessories and pink carnations, and L.T.O. W. J. Stevenson, R.C.N.V.R., was groomsman. Twenty-four guests were present at the ceremony and reception which followed in a room bright with tulips, iris and white aubretia. A buffet supper was served. A.B. and Mrs. Gilmour will make their home at 3016 Donald Street.

MYHRE—HOULDING

Marjory Doris, twin daughter of Mrs. Emily Houlding, 1327 Minto Street, became the bride, Wednesday evening, April 28, of Petty Officer Hans Martin Myhre, R.C.N.V.R., son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Myhre, Rose Valley, Sask. The wedding took place in Fairfield United Church with Dr. Sipprell the officiating minister.

The bride was given in marriage by Mr. E. Sheppard, and wore a floor-length dress of white brocaded satin and tulle. Her veil fell from a halo headdress of net and lily of the valley, and she carried a bouquet of white calla lillies. The bridesmaid, Miss Elsie Houlding, twin sister of the bride, in a floor-length dress of yellow sheer and matching headdress, carried a bouquet of apricot carnations and yellow snapdragons. Harlow Myhre, R.C.A.F., brother of the groom, was best man, and acting as ushers were P.O.'s Ralder Myhre and Gordon Qualley, R.C.N.V.R. Mrs. Emily Houlding, mother of the bride, welcomed the ninety wedding guests to the reception that was held in the Royal Bank Hall, which was appropriately decorated with an archway of red, white and blue, covered with Spring flowers, and surmounted by an anchor. A four-tier wedding cake stood beside the archway.

The happy couple left for Vancouver, and following a short honeymoon they will return to Esquimalt, where the groom is stationed.

Engagements

Announcements to appear under this heading will be accepted at The Colonist Advertising Department. Minimum charge $1.50 for 10 lines, and 15c for each additional line.

May 21 has been chosen for the marriage of Jessie (Bunty), younger daughter of Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Reynolds, to Lieut. W. N. Black, R.C.N.V.R., younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Black, of St. Martin's, N.B. Lieut. Black is a bachelor of science of McGill University, and Miss Reynolds is a recent graduate of the Royal Jubilee Hospital. The wedding will take place in the First Baptist Church at 8.30 o'clock.

Posh and Young Mistress United Again

Believed to be the only dog in the world to have a bulletin issued on his condition while under the care of a veterinarian, Posh, four-year-old purebred cocker spaniel which survived the sinking of H.M.C.S. Weyburn, is back at the Ten Mile Point home of his young mistress, six-year-old Pamela Golby.

Thrown into the sea by the force of the explosion which took the life of his master, Lt.-Cmdr. T. W. Golby, gallant commander of the ill-fated corvette, Posh was rescued by members of the crew. Taken to Gibraltar with the other survivors, the dog was treated for shock and oil, which threatened the loss of his sight. It was during Posh's stay in hospital at Gibraltar that daily bulletins were issued by the veterinarian in charge.

Yesterday, amid popular surroundings and among old friends, Posh looked none the worse for his hazardous experiences. His little mistress was also happy and paid much attention to her friend of long standing, and one that she vouched would "never go away again."

Most surprising to Mrs. Golby were the actions of the dog and the speed with which he made himself at home. "It is hard to believe he has been away," she said, as Posh, with wagging tail and a pleased expression on his knowing face, trotted over rock gardens and played with Mrs. Golby's six-year-old daughter.

To the friendly black and white cocker spaniel everything was fine, except one thing, press photographers trying to get him to pose by the open door of his kennel—the one in which he made the long trip by train to his home. After trying for some minutes the plan was forgotten, and Posh was placed on top of the empty kennel alongside his charming young mistress.

ARRIVED BACK HOME SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Posh reached Victoria on Sunday afternoon by Canadian National Express, and it was a happy reunion between a grand dog and the little girl. But the real homecoming had to await Posh's arrival at the beautiful Ten Mile Point home of Mrs. Golby and her daughter. There Posh was released from the kennel. Quickly the dog displayed his appreciation for his freedom once again, and both Posh and six-year-old Pamela Golby, his mistress, were overjoyed.

Once out of his comfortable and first-class traveling case, Posh was quickly and carefully examined for any signs of injury. But the dog was in perfect shape, and after a bath and something to eat decided to have a nap on the large rug in front of the fireplace. Pamela, all smiles and excited, sat beside the pet, her eyes glued steadfastly on him as he reposed in comfort.

Homeward bound on the Canadian National Railway express car, Posh was given every attention and employees along the route were instructed to give the "sailor" special care.

Posh spent almost a week at Toronto on his cross-Canada jaunt to his Victoria home, and while there did his bit for Canada. The Block and white cocker spaniel appeared at Victory Loan rallies with members of the crew of H.M.C.S. Weyburn, who brought him home.

Next Tuesday Posh will make his stage debut at the regular meeting of the Women's Canadian Club. Mrs. F. G. Aldous, president, announced yesterday that plans have been made for members of the club to see the dog.

Posh, black and white cocker spaniel which survived the sinking of H.M.C.S. Weyburn, is reunited with his young mistress, Pamela Golby, six-year-old daughter of Lieut.-Cmdr. T. W. Golby, who gave his life when the ill-fated corvette was lost.

Junior W.A. Plans Canteen At Royal Jubilee Hospital

A canteen, providing light refreshments and sandwiches, is to be established at the Royal Jubilee Hospital by the Junior Women's Auxiliary of the hospital sometime in the next few months. The plan was announced yesterday at a monthly meeting of the auxiliary, held in the Nurses Home. Mrs. R. A. Wootton, president, was in the chair.

The necessity for the canteen was stressed by the hospital board of directors and Miss L. Mitchell, director of nurses. It will provide light snacks, milk shakes and beverages for nurses who work long hours between meals, and for relatives and friends of patients who visit the hospital and have to wait many hours before they can see patients. At present there is no public rest room where they may obtain refreshment in the institution. A special meeting of the auxiliary will be held in July to discuss details and plan organization.

Those who are reserving tables for the bridge-tea to be held in the Nurses' Home, May 14, were asked by Mrs. Norman Baker, convener, to bring their own table covers, cards and score pads. The event starts at 2.30 o'clock and in mid-afternoon tea will be served by members of the auxiliary. Jong may also be played, and tables may be arranged at home.

All nominated officers of the auxiliary were returned to office by acclamation: President, Mrs. Wootton; first vice-president, Mrs. H. L. Goodland; second vice-president, Miss Cynthia Yarrow; secretary, Mrs. W. Parker; treasurer, Mrs. G. L. Lowe; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. F. A. Lister; Thrift Shop convener, Mrs. D. H. Frith and Thrift Shop treasurer, Mrs. Goldwyn Terry.

A total of 8,376 bandages were completed last month, it was reported by Mrs. J. Gray for the convener, Mrs. H. Robinson, who was absent. Mrs. R. H. Green reported satisfactory progress in the knitting committee, and Mrs. D. Campbell stated that the vocational committee would meet next Tuesday. In the diet report, Mrs. J. Copeman, convener, stated that seven cases were carried on and that a collapsible chair had been purchased for an indigent patient. Forty-four visits were made to patients in hospital, it was reported by Mrs. F. F. Howden, visiting convener, and four visits to patients at home. Mrs. Aylard reported that show case sales were good and Miss M. Aylard stated that the sewing of layettes was proceeding well.

Three new members were introduced: Mrs. W. T. Hunter, Mrs. R. L. Smart and Mrs. M. Hastings. Mrs. E. T. Simmons reported the Thrift Shop was doing a good business, and many clothes had been contributed to the clothing drive of the Canadian Aid to Russia Fund. Miss McBride, social service head, reported three layettes were given out, fifteen home visits were made, six patients were provided with boarding house care and transportation was provided for seven.

An appeal for a portable radio was made by Mrs. K. Barr, who stated that such an instrument was of inestimable value to incurable patients. Mrs. Barr added that two overstuffed chairs had been purchased and provided with slip covers for the men's ward and that four more occasional chairs would be bought. Mrs. Stanley Haynes and Mrs. Andrew Wright read the secretary's and treasurer's reports respectively.

Viceregal Party Makes Brief Stop En Route South

His Excellency the Governor-General, the Earl of Athlone and Her Royal Highness Princess Alice paid a brief visit to Victoria yesterday en route from Vancouver to Seattle.

The viceregal visitors remained in their suite aboard the steamer during the hour the boat was in the harbor. Attendants included Miss Vera Grenfell, lady-in-waiting to Her Royal Highness, and Capt. Leveson-Gower, A.D.C. to His Excellency, also his secretary, Sir Shuldham Redfern.

A. M. D. Fairbairn, private secretary to the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, called at the viceregal suite to receive approval of the programme prepared for the official Victoria visit, which will commence next Sunday and continue until Wednesday.

The viceregal visitors will spend two days in Seattle before proceeding to Portland, and will arrive here next Sunday to stay at Government House. On May 12 they will return to Vancouver.

During their brief visit to Victoria His Excellency and Her Royal Highness will visit units of the navy, army and air force, of which the Governor-General is commander-in-chief.

WEEKLY WARTIME NUTRITION HINTS

Martha Logan, Swift's famed home economist, whose weekly wartime cooking column is a regular feature of this page. Look for these valuable hints each Tuesday.

by Martha Logan

Stew Can be Glorified

Delicious and nutritionally tops, stew is economical in its use of cheaper meat cuts

It's such a pity that some people still don't appreciate stew! And such a mistake! At its best, stew is a dish for a king, besides which it has an important niche in the patriotic housewife's wartime menu, both because it uses the thriftier cuts, (not to mention left-overs), and because it offers a good way of meeting her family meat and vegetable requirements in one succulent dish. So, here we give four basic rules which will help you turn your stews into the family's favourite dinner.

FIRST—Brown the meat. Cut it into serving portions or cubes and brown in hot lard or beef dripping.

SECOND—Keep the heat low. Always simmer a stew. Never boil it.

THIRD—Don't overcook vegetables. Add the potatoes, the diced carrots and turnips, which are so good in stew, and the onions after the meat has simmered well. The vegetables will be nutritionally more valuable if the stew is served as soon as they are cooked. And don't hesitate to add celery, peas, string beans, mushrooms and other interesting vegetables that are on hand.

FOURTH—Experiment with flavouring. A bay leaf or a pinch of sage or thyme or a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce or ketchup . . . any of these can go a long way toward transforming plain stew into a culinary triumph.

And now, let's see where stew stands nutritionally. A good lamb, beef or veal stew made as above, with potatoes, diced carrots and turnips added, will take care of our minimum daily requirement of meat and part of our vegetable requirement. The other yellow or green leafy vegetable might be served at the same meal as a salad.

Then, with a slice or two of Canada Approved bread each, to soak up the gravy, and a glass of milk, you will have a meal that supplies so much of your family's basic needs that the balance (citrus or tomato juices — more bread — whole grain cereal — one other fruit) can safely be left to the other two meals.

Collect Waste Fat for Munitions

CHIEF waste fat collectors of Esquimalt Elementary School, only school in the district to collect more than one ton of fat in the recent "Explosive Commando" salvage campaign, are those seen above.

From left to right, they are Ray Schofield, who collected thirty-one pounds; Bill Floyd, forty-two pounds; Jimmy Morgan, aged six years, twenty-eight and one-half pounds; Grace Barnsley, 127 pounds, who won third prize in the district-wide competition; Betty May Outrim, twenty-seven pounds. John Crystal, who could not appear for the picture, collected fifty-one pounds.

The 417 students of the school collected a total of 2,066 pounds of fat, which contains sufficient ingredients to fire a broadside from a battleship.

St. Matthias' W.G.

St. Matthias' Women's Guild will hold a musicale (symphonic records) at the home of Mrs. H. P. Bagley, 845 Fuul Bay Road, on Thursday, May 6, from 3-6 in the afternoon and 8-10 in the evening. Refreshments will be served and the garden will also be open to the public.

W.A. to Dental Corps

The W.A. to the Canadian Dental Corps met Monday at the Y.W.C.A., Mrs. J. C. Foote presiding and twenty-four members present. Several new members were welcomed and letters from coastal stations read thanking the auxiliary for magazines. Handkerchiefs to be hemmed were given out. An invitation was extended by the president to a tea at her home on May 19 for all members and the handkerchiefs will be turned in at that time.

W.A. to First United Church

The Women's Association of the First United Church held a meeting on Monday afternoon with the president, Mrs. W. S. Dawson, in the chair. The devotional period was taken by Mrs. R. H. Nash. Mrs. J. A. Skellern gave a report on the gift boxes sent at Easter to each of the members of the church now serving overseas. Plans were discussed for planting shrubs and general beautification of the property adjoining the church. A Mother's Day tea will be held on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. A. McKeachie, 1254 Oxford Street, by members of the Fairfield group. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

St. John's L.G.

St. John's Ladies' Guild held a successful tea recently at the rectory. Mrs. H. W. Stavert and Mrs. George Biddle welcomed the guests. The rooms were beautifully decorated with Spring flowers and Mrs. A. Townsley, Mrs. E. A. Fulton and Miss E. Denny presided at the dainty tea table, which was covered with a lace tablecloth, centred with red tapers and a bowl of red tulips and iris. Mrs. G. Lloyd and Mrs. F. W. Taylor were conveners for the fancywork stall. Tea conveners were Mrs. F. Swannell and Mrs. W. S. Oldfield, assisted by Mrs. C. Mudge, Mrs. Littlehale and Misses H. Duke and E. Ellis. The musical programme was under the direction of Mrs. L. Batchelor. The soloists were Mrs. E. Mayell and Mrs. Bert Noel, with Mrs. E. Mayell acting for the accompanist, who was absent through illness.

Orphanage L.C.

The Ladies' Committee to the B.C. Protestant Orphanage met yesterday afternoon at the home when final plans for the annual linen shower being held on Thursday afternoon, from 3 o'clock until 5, were made. Mrs. R. Hughes, president, in the chair. All the children at the home are in good health, it was reported, and during the school holidays enjoyed a number of outings, including a luke from Langford to Goldstream, and the boys spent a week-end at Maple Bay. The junior auxiliary gave a combined Easter and birthday party for the children, and Mrs. A. H. Cox treated a number of them to the show "London Calling," sponsored by the Kiwanians. Mrs. Hughes expressed her gratitude for the many donations received at the home during the month. Visiting ladies for May are Mrs. J. W. Collins and Mrs. E. M. Brown.

L.A. to Lady Minto Hospital

Meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital was held recently in the board room of the institution. A considerable amount of repair work was accomplished by members prior to the business meeting, at which Miss Anna Lees presided. The treasurer's report showed $41.65 on hand, inclusive of $20.01 made by an afternoon's tagging. Arrangements were made for Hospital Day on Thursday, May 13, from 3 o'clock till 5. Mrs. W. M. Mouat and Miss Lees will receive the gifts. A list of articles most required by the hospital will be placed in the Ganges stores. The usual stall of babies' woolen garments will be in charge of Miss Mary Lees, Miss Betty Kingsbury will undertake the running of a contest. Tea will be under the management of Mrs. E. Parsons, Mrs. O. Lowe, Mrs. W. M. Palmer and Mrs. H. Moon. In future auxiliary meetings will be held every two months instead of, as formerly, once a month. Tea hostess for the afternoon, Mrs. J. C. Kingsbury.

King's Daughters

The forty-first annual convention of the King's Daughters will convene in Christ Church Cathedral, Vancouver, on May 5 and 6. The Very Rev. Dean Cecil Swanson will be the main speaker at the opening session Wednesday night. Thursday will be taken up with reports, business sessions and election of provincial officers, with Mrs. Graham Bruce, president, presiding at all the meetings. Mrs. Donald R. Castle is opening her home for an evening reception Thursday and a luncheon will be served that day at the Y.W.C.A. Miss Margaret S. Ross will conduct a consecration service Thursday morning. The Victoria executive members and delegates attending are Mrs. A. M. Perry, Mrs. L. H. Hardie, Mrs. C. F. Lawrence, Mrs. T. D. Roberts, Mrs. James Stewart, Mrs. R. R. Watson, Mrs. E. J. Harris, Mrs. C. Edwards, Mrs. E. W. Duke, Mrs. T. Ackerman, Mrs. G. Portingale, Mrs. James Merry, Mrs. Watson Smith and the Misses I. Cathcart, K. Roberts, E. Hunter and P. Kingsberry.

W.M.S. Presbyterial

Presiding over the monthly business meeting of the W.M.S. Presbyterial Executive at First United Church, at which Mrs. George Owen, of Duncan, conducted the devotional, Mrs. W. H. Muncy announced that she will leave shortly for Toronto to attend Dominion board, May 24-31. As courtesy committee for the year, Mrs. H. Thomson, Mrs. Clothier, and Miss E. Hopkins have been selected, while the following members were chosen to assist on the Committee of Christian Service in Camp and War Production Communities: Mrs. Muncy, Mrs. W. G. Wilson, Mrs. C. A. Fields and Miss McKillican. The newly authorized Bible study course for the schools was heartily recommended to all women as an improver course by the president, especially for Sunday school teachers, and suggested as a possible night school subject. A new mission circle has been organized in Victoria West—the Jara Smith Circle—and increased attendance was noted in many groups. It was decided to meet again on the last Friday in June, and the Fall rally was tentatively planned for September 8.

Arts and Crafts

The Sketch Club of the Island Arts and Crafts Society met on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. J. Woodward, "Clovelly," Quadra Street, when a most enjoyable afternoon was spent painting the beauty spots of the garden which was ablaze with color. Miss Gwladys Woodward was hostess for tea, the table centred with an amber bowl of tulips and narcissi. Refreshments were served to about twenty-five members. Next Monday the Sketch Club will meet at the terminus of the Uplands car line at 2 o'clock to paint the wild camas.

British Women, Young, Old Engage in Vital War Jobs

Today in Britain, women, young and old, are engaged in war work. The work they do is hard, and the hours are long. A normal week ranges from forty-eight to fifty-four hours. Rationing, blackouts, long distances to and from work, separation of families, all press heavily both on the industrial worker and the homekeeper.

Early in 1941, the Ministry of Labor was given power of direction over women. Under this, British women could be called upon to register in age groups, and then posted where most needed. In December, 1941, these powers were extended and women can, as and when needed, be conscripted for national service. Not compulsion, however, but the eagerness of the women to serve on the one hand, and the power of direction of the Minister of Labor on the other, has assembled the vast range of tasks now performed with such success.

By the Autumn of 1942, in addition to women in the uniformed services, "auxiliary civil defence, nursing and police there were nearly 7,000,000 women in Britain working full time in industry. Another 285,000 were working part-time. Adding to these numbers the uniformed women, and the women doing full-time unpaid work in the women's voluntary services and other organizations, the number left out of war activity becomes very small.

The Minister of Labor can and does schedule essential lines of work from which women workers may not move or be taken. This covers agriculture, canteen and hostel staff, the civil defence services, coal, cotton spinning and weaving, dentistry, hospital service, teaching, transport, and public utility services.

British women's war effort can be divided into four main groups. First comes the uniformed services, including civil defense and police; second, there is nursing and its allied services; third, women workers on and about the land; fourth, women in industry.

Women in industry form the most important group numerically. Sixty per cent. of the personnel of the Royal Ordnance factories are women. Women are rapidly taking over the machine, iron and steel, shipbuilding, repair and aircraft production industries. There is also a growing body of women on highly responsible operations requiring special and delicate skill.

The British Ministry of Labor is doing all in its power to help the willing women workers of the Old Country. It insists on adequate welfare arrangements, canteens, good midday meals and careful health supervision in all factories, backed up by the aid given by the homekeeping older women and by the voluntary organizations.

Can Now Give Information To Newspapers

Next of Kin May Disclose Casualties

OTTAWA, May 3 (CP)—While the names of missing Canadian airmen still will not appear on official casualty lists until five weeks after the operation from which they failed to return, there is no objection to next of kin giving information to the newspapers, an R.C.A.F. spokesman said today.

The aim in not publishing the names in the official lists immediately is to keep from the enemy complete information on the number of men missing as a result of a specific operation, this spokesman said.

However, there was no objection to the release of information by next of kin, since it was unlikely a complete list would thus be made available on any given day.

INSTRUCTIONS TO NEXT OF KIN

The five-week delay in publishing missing men's names in casualty lists follows the practice of the R.A.F., and the following paragraph from letters now being sent to next of kin after a man is reported missing is almost identical with a paragraph in R.A.F. letters.

"Your son's (or husband's) name will not appear in the official casualty list for five weeks. You may, however, release to the press or radio the fact that he is reported missing, but not disclosing date, place, or his unit."

Some weeks ago the press censors removed a directive advising against publication of information about missing men until five weeks had elapsed, but the change in the practice of the R.C.A.F. casualty branch was not put into effect until considerably later, after a check with the British Air Ministry on overseas procedure.

Until a few days ago, next of kin of missing Canadian airmen were still being advised not to give information to newspapers or radio.

Port Arthur Crewmen Helped Sink Submarine

Peacetime Fishing Boats Play Vital Part in Defence

Help Warships of Canadian Navy Protect Pacific Coast From Attack by the Enemy

OTTAWA, May 3 (CP).—Sturdy little ships which have exchanged their peacetime cargoes of sockeye and smelt for wartime cargoes of depth charges and ammunition for their guns help warships of the Canadian Navy to protect Canada's Pacific Coast from enemy attack.

These small ships of the Fishermen's Reserve — now the Royal Canadian Navy Fishermen's Reserve —are an integral part of the Pacific Fleet.

Typical of their work is the story of the reserve's H.M.C.S. Surf, which ran aground one stormy January night on the coast of Vancouver Island. The Surf was prevented from being a total loss through eighteen days of hard work on the part of officers and men of other reserve ships. Now $12,000 worth of her machinery is stored in the naval dockyard at Esquimalt.

STRANDED FOR FOUR NIGHTS

For four nights and three days the men of the Surf were stranded on the remote, rockbound shoreline. Signal fires and all-night watches brought no response. The crew subsisted on food and supplies brought ashore from the crippled ship.

On the fifth day a fishing vessel, Brice No. 1, saw their signals and relayed the news to Esquimalt. A salvage party, under Lieut. William Reay, R.C.N.R., went to the rescue aboard H.M.C.S. Leelo, another former fishing boat.

OBTAINED 140 EMPTY DRUMS

With great difficulty the Leelo obtained 140 empty gasoline drums, picking them up from oil and logging companies along the coast. In cold, rough weather the job of placing the empty drums in the Surf for buoyancy was completed.

Then, with the aid of another fishing ship, H.M.C.S. San Tomas, the Surf was freed with a tow. Twice before she was finally towed to a cradle and safety at Esquimalt, she was beached and more empty drums were added.

In a raging sea, a jury rudder was attached. Twice the towline parted. Through the darkness, H.M.C.S. Leelo tugged her until the conclusion of the rescue on the eighteenth day.

Set Prices on Frozen Halibut

OTTAWA, May 3 (CP) — The Prices Board in an order issued today, established maximum prices at which processors, wholesale distributors and retailers may sell Pacific Coast frozen halibut.

The top price at which a processor may sell frozen, dressed halibut F.O.B. any of the four principal markets in British Columbia—Vancouver, New Westminster, Victoria or Prince Rupert—is set at twenty-one cents a pound for fish between ten and sixty pounds in weight, or twenty cents a pound above or below that range. The prices are for halibut packed in wooden cases. For bulk sales the price is one-half cent a pound less.

To his laid-down costs, including transportation and sales tax, a wholesale distributor is permitted to add the markup he customarily obtained in the basic price period (September 15-October 17, 1941), not to exceed 20 per cent of his selling price. An additional handling charge of one cent a pound is allowed on sales of less than case lots.

A retailer's markup is limited to 33 1-3 per cent of his selling price.

G. B. Huband Dies in East

MONTREAL, May 3 (CP)—George D. Huband, Canadian representative of the British Ministry of War Transport, which controls all ships in the service of Britain and the European Governments in London, died at his home here today. He was forty-five.

A native of Bray, County Down, Ireland, he had resided here since 1929, when he came to Canada as general manager of the Cunard Steamship Company. He is survived by his widow, the former Louisa Molson, of Montreal, and a three-year-old son.

An authority on shipping, Mr. Huband had been Canadian representative of the British Ministry of War Transport since October, 1941, when he took over the position following the resignation of the late Sir Edward Beatty.

At that time he had been for two years an assistant to Sir Ashley Sparks, representative of the War Transport Ministry in the United States. He went to that post from Montreal, where he had been deputy chief Canadian representative of the Cunard-White Star Line since 1934.

He won the Military Cross for services in the first Great War, in which he started with the Royal Garrison Artillery and later switched to the Royal Flying Corps.

Naval Casualty

OTTAWA, May 3 (CP)—Naval Service Headquarters in its one-name, 170th casualty list of the war today listed as "presumed dead as of December 31" Stoker Petty Officer James Henry McCappin, whose wife, Mrs. Mary A. McCappin, lives at Toronto.

McCappin, a member of the R.C.N.V.R. with official number V22284, was previously reported missing on active service.

At the Theatres

Historical Drama Now at Dominion

Lionel Barrymore, Van Heflin and Ruth Hussey, hailed by critics as the best-balanced trio of stars ever to appear in a Hollywood production, are brought together in M-G-M's great historical drama, "Tennessee Johnson," which opens today at the Dominion Theatre.

The drama is based on the life of Andrew Johnson, one-time illiterate, runaway tailor's apprentice, who rises to the Presidency of the United States.

Van Heflin has the role of the illiterate backwoodsman who becomes the nation's leader. Miss Hussey will be seen as the understanding sweetheart and wife who educates him and aids him in the trials and tribulations which beset him.

Lionel Barrymore has the role of Thaddeus Stevens.

YORK THEATRE Joan Bennett must sneeze for one hilarious sequence in "The Wife Takes a Flyer," now showing at the York Theatre, when Alvin Joslyn presents the lovely star with a bouquet of flowers. She was supposed to be allergic to them and begin sneezing, but when Miss Bennett, who co-stars with Franchot Tone in the comedy, now at the York Theatre, disclosed that she is not allergic to any type of flower, the director finally supplied a synthetic perfume to sprinkle on the blooms. This brought the desired sneezes on cue.

RIO THEATRE Giving her enthusiastic approval and technical advice to the last story based upon the career of her late husband, famed showman Florenz Ziegfeld, Billie Burke again lent her aid and support to "Ziegfeld Girl," now showing at the Rio Theatre. James Stewart, Judy Garland, Hedy Lamarr, Lana Turner and Tony Martin head the cast. Close behind come Jackie Cooper, Ian Hunter, Charles Winninger, Edward Everett Horton and Philip Dorn.

CAPITOL THEATRE In any history of Hollywood, Ronald Colman and Greer Garson would stand out among the great romantic stars of the screen. Now they have been brought together for the first time to create the hero and heroine of James Hilton's best selling novel and a film that is sure to be numbered among the most memorable of all motion picture love stories, "Random Harvest," now showing at the Capitol Theatre. It was Colman's brilliant performance in "Lost Horizon" and Miss Garson's unforgettable portrayal of Mrs. Chips in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" that added laurels to those famous Hilton novels in their film version.

PLAZA THEATRE Teresa Wright, small, soft-spoken, mild-mannered and the newest star on the Hollywood horizon, is still living in a dream. It was only a few short seasons ago that she was appearing in her first Broadway play, "Life With Father." Yet, in that brief time she has completed three leading film roles and, is now being starred with Joseph Cotten in her fourth, Alfred Hitchcock's "Shadow of a Doubt," now showing at the Plaza Theatre.

OAK BAY THEATRE The Warner Bros. picture called "My Love Came Back" which is now showing at the Oak Bay Theatre is a musical comedy as frothy as the swish of a Viennese petticoat in waltz time. Some entertaining young people are acting in it and having fun. Olivia deHavilland plays a violin, sweet or hot; Jane Wyman is at the piano, Eddie Albert performs prodigies on a tuba; Charles Winninger astrays with the deft feet of a soft-shoe dancer; Jeffrey Lynn unbends and solemnly makes cat calls on a mouth organ.

ATLAS THEATRE "The Hard Way," starring Ida Lupino, Dennis Morgan and Joan Leslie and now showing at the Atlas Theatre, is the story of a deeply ambitious and luxury-loving woman whose fanatical love for her only sister leads her to such lengths that she ruthlessly exploits all those who stand in her way. Ida Lupino portrays the role of Helen Chernen, with Joan Leslie playing the innocent and talented young sister Katherine.

Amusements

On the Screen

Atlas—Ida Lupino and Dennis Morgan in "The Hard Way."

Cadet—Irene Dunne and Robert Montgomery in "Unfinished Business."

Capitol — "Random Harvest," starring Greer Garson and Ronald Colman.

Dominion—Lionel Barrymore, Ruth Hussey and Van Heflin in "Tennessee Johnson."

Oak Bay—Olivia deHavilland and Jeffrey Lynn in "My Love Came Back."

Plaza—"Shadow of a Doubt," with Teresa Wright and Joseph Cotten.

Rio—"Ziegfeld Girl," starring Judy Garland, James Stewart and Hedy Lamarr.

York — Joan Bennett and Franchot Tone in "The Wife Takes a Flyer."

CADET THEATRE Nowadays almost every modern woman might be called a career girl, and the outcome of her income is exemplified by her good taste in dressing. This modern formula highlights the screen costumes of Irene Dunne in Universal's romantic comedy, "Unfinished Business," at the Cadet Theatre. Created by Howard Greer, one of the foremost designers of Hollywood, they advance significant style notes for the woman who can indulge in every whim of fashion or the woman who follows a limited budget.

Stirring War Epic Coming to Dominion

Henry Fonda has been a top-ranking Twentieth Century-Fox star for seven years and Maureen O'Hara for three, yet the two romantic leads were never cast together until the studio filmed John Brophy's stirring "Immortal Sergeant," which opens Friday at the Dominion Theatre.

Owing to the fact that the film is mostly concerned with the action-packed drama of Rommel's rout on the burning sands of the Libyan desert, and that's no place for a lady, the romantic sequences are woven into the stirring story in an unusually appealing manner.

R.C.A.F. Bombers, Fighters In Thick of Aerial Battle

Halifaxes and Wellingtons Participate in Ten Major Raids on Continental Targets

LONDON, May 3 (CP).—Royal Canadian Air Force bombers joined in some of the heaviest attacks of the war on enemy targets last month while the Canadian fighter wing, which frequently forms part of the flying screen around the U.S.A.A.F. daylight bombers, knocked down seventeen enemy aircraft, it was disclosed today.

Canadian bomber group participated in ten major raids on objectives in Germany and occupied territory, and Canadians flying with R.A.F. Lancaster squadrons operated in two additional raids.

The month's first operation by Canadians was in the double blow at the submarine bases at Lorient and St. Nazaire April 2, and the following night Canadian Halifaxes helped carry the 900 tons of explosives unloaded over Essen.

RECORD NUMBER OF BOMBERS

A record number of Canadian bombers took part in the raid "in great strength" on Kiel the next night and six nights later R.C.A.F. aircraft made up 25 per cent of the force sent to Western Germany. All squadrons of the group were represented on the Stuttgart attack on April 14.

R.C.A.F. bombers also flew in the great raids on Pilsen and Mannheim, Ludwigshaven and Duisburg. They raided the Ruhr and Stettin and helped in large-scale mining operations at the end of the month. In R.A.F. Lancasters Canadian airmen took part in additional raids on Duisburg and on Spezia, Italy. The month's bombing cost the R.C.A.F. forty-six bombers.

The Canadian Spitfire wing destroyed five enemy aircraft while escorting fighter bombers to Abbeville on April 3 and five more the next day when heavy American bombers raided Billancourt on the outskirts of Paris.

SPITFIRES ESCORT AMERICAN BOMBERS

The Spitfires helped take American heavy bombers to Antwerp, Venturas to Ostend, Abbeville and Dieppe and fighter bombers to Tricqueville and Le Havre. In addition they attacked railway targets and carried out diversionary sweeps.

They got two Focke-Wulf 190s on offensive sweeps on April 14, four more while flying with Venturas on April 17 and still another enemy aircraft on April 20. R.C.A.F. Bostons, Beaufighters and Mosquitoes flying with the Fighter Command attacked enemy objectives in France on several nights and slashed at targets in The Netherlands and Northwest Germany. The R.C.A.F. lost fourteen fighters during the month's operations.

Mustangs of the Army Co-operation Wing made low-level attacks on enemy communications on three occasions and poured fire into fifteen locomotives. One Mustang was lost.

R.C.A.F. Hampden torpedo bombers and long-range Beaufighter coastal craft participated in attacks on enemy shipping in the Bay of Biscay and off the enemy's northern coast.

R.C.A.F. squadrons with the Coastal Command were busy with convoy escort and anti-submarine patrols. One R.C.A.F. aircraft was lost on coastal operations.

Two Rescued From Boat Run Ashore

Two men, one slightly injured, were reported rescued early yesterday morning by the Ss. Princess Alice from the sixty-foot halibut boat, W. No. 8, which had run ashore on Texada Island near North East Point.

A lifeboat was lowered from the Alice, which was on its way to Vancouver from Powell River, after distress signals had been observed by Second Officer James Eddy, and the two men were brought aboard.

Two others, the skipper and engineer of the damaged vessel, remained with their boat in the hope of being able to refloat her at high-water.

Submarine Overdue

LONDON, May 5 (CP).—The Admiralty today announced that the submarine Turbulent is overdue and must be presumed lost. She was commanded by Cmdr. J. W. Linton, D.S.O., D.S.C.

The Turbulent was a new craft and no information on her dimensions is available in Jane's fighting ships.

She sank two Axis supply ships and one escorting Italian destroyer in the Central Mediterranean last September.

How It Started—

By JEAN NEWTON

"ABORIGINES"—

Progenitors of Mussolini?

Our boys are running into them everywhere—in the Solomons, the Australian bush, New Caledonia, Papua and a host of other South Pacific place names loosed on an unexpected world every time our army, navy or marines get going.

The allusion is to native races anywhere, the earliest known inhabitants of any land; but this was not always the meaning of them.

Originally "aborigines" was applied to the first dwellers in Latium or Italy, particularly to a Central Italian tribe, settled there, of course, before the Roman period.

The word is rooted in the Latin phrase "aborigine," meaning "from the beginning."

(Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Bison meat was a main item in the diet of gangs building the early railroads in the West.

"George, am I as dear to you as I was before we were married?"

"Ah, in those days I didn't count the cost!"

German Flyer Is Obliging

Goes 'Round Other Way on Request

LONDON, May 3 (CP).—Everybody knows how the navy's ships enjoy a bit of signal back-chat now and again, but it has reached the stage where even Goering's flying men are taking part in it.

The navy boys tell a story of a British warship exchanging wisecracks with a Focke-Wulf which was dogging a convoy, circling round and round.

From the warship went the signal: "For God's sake go 'round the other way. You are making us dizzy."

"Anything to oblige the British," came the reply from the aircraft—and it went round the other way.

"THAT ANYWHERE NEAR YOU?"

At that moment an armed merchant cruiser in the convoy let off an optimistic round in the aircraft's direction and the warship signaled the flyer: "That anywhere near you?"

"Miles away," replied the Focke-Wulf, and then he sheered off.

There is another story about H.M.S. Skate, Britain's oldest destroyer and the only three-funnelled destroyer in the navy. She was challenged by another warship and asked "who are you?" The Skate is nothing, if not dignified, and she replied: "Churchill's secret weapon."

If May 4 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date will be from 10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. from 2:14 to 4:15 p.m. and from 8:15 to 10:15 p.m. The danger periods will be from 8:15 to 10:15 a.m., from 6:15 to 8:15 p.m. and from 10:15 p.m. until midnight.

Remember that as "chickens come home to roost," so do many of our thoughtlessly made comments—do a little thinking before you make any. Before putting your head on anything on May 4 be sure it is attainable, and you will save yourself disappointment. You must dwell within the realm of realism if you are to accomplish things worthwhile—do not waste your time chasing will-o'-the-wisps. Confine your thinking to facts, not theories, and do not engage in wishful thinking. Married, engaged and courting couples had better not be lacking in enthusiasm if they are to accomplish the things most conducive to their happiness.

If you are a woman and May 4 is your birthday, subconscious jealousy may cause you to dislike people whom it would be to your interest to like, so analyze your feelings and try to control them. Be impersonal in your business dealings with people whose peculiarities rub you the wrong way. Before get

"Yes—we're buying VICTORY BONDS"

● When the family council is called on Victory Bonds, the wise woman will say to her husband, "Yes—we'll find the money."

The family's needs must be met, of course. But plan the family budget to eliminate all extravagances, for the country's needs for war are pressing, and as a patriotic duty you should provide for the maximum purchase of Victory Bonds.

Victory Bonds further Canada's war effort . . . and they provide the finest kind of "social security" a family could have. Backed by Canada's full resources, your money in Victory Bonds is SAFE, brings good interest and will form a nest egg for the future.

We'll Lend Money

This Bank will lend you money, if you need it, to buy Victory Bonds. Repayment terms are easy. The interest on the loan for six months would be the same as that payable on the Bond. You can, therefore, borrow the required funds without expense.

Give a friendly, attentive hearing to the Victory Loan salesman who calls on you. He is an authorized salesman, with proper credentials . . . able to explain fully the purpose of this Victory Loan and how you may subscribe conveniently, safely . . . on easy payment terms if you so desire.

By JOE DELAHUNTY

GOING AFTER

"I hope to come back with the championship," stated Harvey Dubs, twenty-year-old navy fighter on the eve of his departure for Vancouver yesterday to commence serious training for his important date with Len Wadsworth, Sudbury, for the Canadian middleweight crown on the evening of May 12 in the Athletic Park. When I say that Harvey is twenty, I am correct to a certain extent, but three days after the fight he will be of voting age. Wadsworth, by the way, has held the title since 1938 and is heading for the Coast city along with his manager at the present moment.

Payments of Cash Dividends by U.S. Railroads Greater

WASHINGTON, May 3 (CP)—Cash dividend payments by United States railroads during the last quarter of 1942 were 4½ per cent greater than in the corresponding period of 1941, the Interstate Commerce Department reported today.

Dividend payments by the railroad companies rose from $24,800,000 in the last quarter of 1942 to $25,900,000 in the last three months of this year.

The record for the first quarter of 1930 was $40,000,000, or about 3 per cent more than the first quarter of 1942.

According to a statement by the Association of American Railroads, net operating income for the first quarter of 1943 dropped to $44,000,000 from $46,000,000 in the first quarter of 1942.

National Blessings

By STEPHEN LEACOCK

I was a witness to a queer matter of psychology this morning. Psychology? No, I'm not trying to use a long word for a short. It's simple enough. It just means the way you use your mind. For instance, at poker when you want the others to think you hold at least a straight, that's psychology. At golf when you say to the caddy, "How many was that last hole?" and want him to say seven instead of eleven, that's

The case I mean occurred in the Mariposa barber shop that I spoke of before—Jeff's place—a sort of centre of town talk and public information.

It was in the quiet hour of the morning with only Jeff himself shaving. I'd got nominated to the chair right away because the morning papers had just come off the bus and most of the fellers preferred to sit and read for a while.

Well, Bill Landy was talking to George Summers and evidently talking Victory Loan.

Bill Landy has a mind as quick and bright as the flight of a humming bird. He has to. He's in the mining stock business and in that you mustn't give the other man time to think. Of course, Bill is closed just now, so he's in war work—a dollar a year man—the most he ever made, net. He's the chief canvasser for the Loan in Mariposa—not the chairman of the committee, though. Mariposa is too religious a place to make a mining broker a chairman.

Anyway, Bill was talking to George Summers. George is different. He has a cement business, and you know the way it is with cement. It has to settle. George's mind is like that. You can't make any marks on it—he won't let you—till it gets set and firm. George laid the town sidewalks and he doesn't forget the place where the duck walked across the cement in front of the public library. No, sir.

I didn't hear how the talk or argument started because Jeff had put a hot towel over my face and stopped to listen and forgot me. But when he let me out of the chair Bill Landy was saying,

"At any rate you remember the old phrase, a national debt is a national blessing."

"Why do you call it a phrase?" says George.

"Because it is."

"Is what?"

"Is a phrase," says Bill.

"Never mind the phrase business," interrupts one of the boys who was listening. "Where does the blessing come in? Isn't a debt a debt?"

"Why, this way," says Bill, "you take a national debt like ours, widely distributed—"

"What do you call distributed?" asks George.

"He means everybody holds some," says one of the fellers.

"Oh!"

"Well," Bill went on, "now let's say that individual 'A' holds a hundred dollars—"

"Who's he?" asks George.

"Well, just 'A,' or if you like I'll call him 'B.'"

"No, no, call him 'A' if you like. You mean some feller whose name begins with A, like Alec Anderson or Andy Ames."

"Yes, exactly, but I don't mean them."

"Oh, you don't!"

"He just means anybody," interrupts the chorus.

"Yes," says Bill, "I just mean a whole string of individuals 'A,' and 'B,' and 'C,' all the way to 'Z.'"

"I doubt," says George Summers slowly, "if you'd find any feller here in Mariposa whose name begins with 'Z.'"

"No matter," says Bill, "the point is this. Each hundred dollars that the government borrows means, to the government, a hundred dollars of debt."

"Yes."

"But for 'A,' 'B,' and 'C,' it means a hundred dollars as an asset."

"Right down to 'Z,'" says George, "or is there a catch in it?"

"Why, don't you see, George," interrupts me and the fellers in the seats, "what's a debt to the Government that it owes me, looks to me like an asset, a hundred dollars to the good."

"Exactly," says Bill Landy. "Now add up all the total. If the country owes a billion dollars, is it any poorer? No, not if it owes it at home. It means there are a lot of people in the country who are, put together, a billion dollars to the good. Make it two billion, it's all the same."

"And where's the blessing?" asked George.

"Holds the country together," says one of the listeners. "Who's going to upset or shipwreck a government that owes it to itself?"

"Exactly," says Bill Landy. "Now I'll tell you a story. I'll tell you a story that I've told before, but I'll tell it again. Some years ago I was in Ottawa and I met a man who was a member of the Government. He was a Minister. I'm not going to tell you his name, but I'll tell you this much, that he was a Minister of Finance. I'll tell you this much more, that he was a Minister of Finance in a Conservative Government. Little Stories for Bedtime - - - -

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

"If I only had had those paths all cut," thought Peter.

"Though Peter Rabbit is a shirk
He's proved at last that he can work."

That wasn't a very nice thing for Sammy Jay to be saying, but it was true, and down in his heart Peter knew that it was true. So as he couldn't say a word in reply, he just kept right on working, which shows that there is some wisdom in Peter's foolish little head after all. He was cutting his way out of the bramble-tangle on the edge of the Green Forest into the middle of which he had been driven by Reddy Fox. Of course he could have got out the same way he got in by wriggling and crawling between the close-growing vines and brambles, but he had torn his clothes badly, and he smarted from many scratches. "He didn't want any more, so he wisely decided to cut a path out.

He heard Sammy Jay's taunt. Of course he did. Sammy meant that he should. The funny thing is that though it didn't seem a very nice thing for Sammy to be saying, it really was being done for Peter's own good. It was a part of a plan of some of Peter's friends to teach him how much better it is to work than to shirk. To shirk, you know, is to pretend to do a thing yet not do it. Peter had pretended to be working very hard cutting paths through the old bramble-tangle so as to have a safe retreat in time of danger, but he had spent most of his time dreaming how fine it would be when all the paths were finished, instead of going ahead and cutting the paths. So Bobby Coon and Sammy Jay and Unc' Billy Possum and a few more of Peter's friends had put their heads together and decided that Peter needed a lesson for his own good; that he should be made to work. So Sammy Jay had told Reddy Fox how he could surprise Peter on the edge of the bramble-tangle and then had warned Peter just in time for Peter to wriggle in among the brambles out of Reddy's reach.

But Peter didn't know this. He didn't know that Bobby Coon and Unc' Billy Possum had been watching from the same tree on the edge of the Green Forest and had seen all that had happened. If when he started to work he could have seen them nudge each other and chuckle, it is doubtful if he would have guessed even then what they were laughing about.

But Peter didn't see them, and he didn't stop to say anything to Sammy Jay. He was too busy. He was busy cutting away those vines and brambles as hard as ever he could so as to make a path, and at the same time

That Means YOU Must Buy
Victory Bonds

It's the purchase of small bonds . . . the $50 and $100 bonds which must count for millions of dollars in this huge job of "backing the attack with fighting dollars."

Vancouver Island must raise a quota of $9,500,000 in Victory Bonds, an actual increase of $2,585,700 over the actual amount subscribed to the 3rd Victory Loan.

No matter how little or how much our pay checks are, each of us must do his or her part . . . buy bonds to the utmost of our capacity.

IT'S EASY TO BUY A VICTORY BOND . . . as little as $5.00 down with your application . . . and the balance over the next successive five months.

"Dina Cashman"

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER XIX

"No; haven't the faintest idea. I'm sorry Vere hasn't played a little bit handsomer part, but I've not ever been very close to him, although I've always liked the boy well enough. He's always seemed to me a decent young feller. Just how he'd act at a time like this I am sure that I couldn't say. His again narrowed and his smile grim, "is a splendid example of the queen cobra. I was an usher at my brother's wedding twenty-five years ago; I was sixteen. I met her that day. I hated her at first sight. I knew then she'd wreck Van's life, and she's done her best. She sees me now and then—knows the boy will come in for whatever I leave, in all probability—and that's why she did her best to break off my affair with Mrs. Havens. That doesn't interest you, of course."

"It does," Dina said politely.

"Aline and Caroline are great friends, and Caroline worked up this Havens match. She probably dictated the note Aline wrote me."

"But why should she break it off, since it was with her best friend?" Dina demanded, wide-eyed.

"Because of precious young Vere's coming in for my money," the man answered almost impatiently. "Because she hates me."

"Oh," Dina felt her spirits sinking. She did not belong in this group. She had no claim on them. The futility of traveling three thousand miles to see Vere came over her like a cold wave.

And yet, to see him again, to hear his laugh again, to feel his hand covering hers—ah, that would be to live once more! There was no other way. Dina got to her feet. "You arrange with Mrs. Bucket about going into town," he said. "And remember, if you get stuck, just smile as if you knew all about everything, and look at me. Good-bye, Geraldine."

"It's good of him." She was entranced, staring at a photograph of Vere that was on a table.

"You may have that if you like," the man said. "I've others."

"No; no, thank you," Dina said. "I'd rather he gave me one himself."

"You'd rather what?"

Her head was high. She faced the man, half turning, her cheeks blazing.

"He's never given me one," she said.

"All right, Geraldine," Rogers Holland said. "I think you and I are going to understand each other."

Ten minutes later she was out in the sharp Winter cold, walking toward the bus.

"I am doing something," she said half aloud. "I am doing something. Perhaps if you do something it changes things. Perhaps there will be a letter from Vere at the store!"

"Letter there for you," Frances Tack said when Dina was back at the desk in the grocery. Dina's heart leaped. She took it with hands that trembled.

It was a short letter, scribbled in ink on one side of a thick square page. Dina read it twice. Then she put it back in the envelope and put the envelope in the breast pocket of her sweater. A moment later she was back at work.

"You look queer, Dina," said Frances, slamming cans and packages into a tall brown paper bag. "Headache?"

"No, I'm all right," Dina answered. She cleared her throat, for the first time at speech, was unintelligible. "I'm all right," she repeated.

* * * * * * *

Rogers' driver, Hall, met Dina at the Bonita Station, or rather at the open weather-beaten shed that did duty as a station, just a week later.

The car rushed smoothly up the wide highway, turned at the bridge crossing, moved steadily westward on the rise of the hills, and took the road that climbed through Belmont.

The old Holland place stood in forty wooded acres and had a deep canyon to itself. It had been built in days of the pioneers, gold-rush, railroad-fortune days; it had been somewhat modernized in the nineties. But it was still a pretentious, gloomy, clumsy old building.

Tonight it wore an aspect as cheerful as gushing lights and a wide-opened door could lend it. The Hollands had once been famous for hospitality, and although that day was long dead, something of its glory was on this occasion restored.

The dress, the slippers had arrived. Everything that she and Mrs. Bucket had bought, in a bewildering afternoon of shopping the previous Friday, was there. Her costume was complete. Dina was left alone to enjoy a bath, to get into her undergarments unobserved. The housekeeper returned to help her with the final touches.

The slippers were silver; there was a band of tiny silver roses for her hair. The dress was of heavy white satin, printed with large splashy flower clusters, and at her waist was a cluster of more silver roses from which hung delicate silver ribbons.

Dina had never seen such a gown before; the saleswoman had indeed assured them that there was no other like it anywhere. The girl stood looking at herself in the mirror like one dazed.

Under the little crown of roses her soft burnished hair rippled and curved in waves. Her face was pale but alight with excitement.

The gown was short-waisted; a quaint tightness forced up the young breasts so that a suggestion of cleft showed between them; the narrowness of hips and waistline made the spreading skirts seem all the more flower-like.

Dina's eyes were blazing. Upon the advice of the saleswoman she had used only a pale lip red; her mouth looked soft and young, and when she smiled at her reflection the smile was sad rather than gay.

"My goodness, you look like another girl!" Mrs. Bucket said in honest admiration.

"Fine feathers," Dina said slowly.

ANSWER TO SUNDAY'S PUZZLE

Island Breeders Revive Society

The Salt Spring Island Sheep Breeders' Association, which has been inactive for several years, was revived recently with an enthusiastic president in the person of J. Fraser, North Salt Spring; vice-president, W. Y. Stewart; secretary-treasurer, Arthur Hepburn, South Salt Spring, and a representative committee from all parts of the Island, including Capt. A. M. Smith, H. Ruckle, Gavin C. Mouat, N. W. Wilson, Frank Pyatt and C. A. Goodrich.

The first meeting of the association was held on Friday evening in the Mahon Hall, Ganges, at which the president explained the objects of the association, which were to improve mutton, lamb and wool prices received for produce. He urged the co-operation of members in stirring up an interest amongst the owners of small flocks.

The guest speaker was Dr. Wallace Gunn, Provincial livestock commissioner, who gave valuable advice on raising and maintaining good healthy stock, and told his hearers, in plain terms, how they failed in doing this and where the remedy lay. He spoke on the ills to which badly looked after flocks of sheep are liable and the best way of treating them, also how to obtain the best results through careful feeding and management.

He said he considered Salt Spring a wonderful location for raising sheep and early lambs, of which it is understood there are approximately 20,000 on the Island. The speaker mentioned the cropping system and how, on the Island, this system needed revision, and stressed the necessity of keeping stock for Winter feeding and sketched a programme dealing with clipping, culling, treating of parasites and introduction of new rams.
